Canada Bans 'Buzzing' of Red Ships by Service Planes

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has acceded to Soviet demands that Canadian military planes stop "buzzing" Russian trawlers operating off Canada's east coast, it was learned reliably Tuesday.

"Buzzing" means flying low. In the case of RCAF and RCN planes on North Atlantic patrol it means flying low over the Russian ships for the purpose of identification and, sometimes, of photographing the vessels.

It is understood that the government order also applies to RCAF planes which keep a close eye on Russian-occupied ice islands in the Arctic Ocean.

It is believed the government order was issued to avoid any possibility of an accident, such as a Canadian plane colliding with a Russian ship.

However, the RCAF and RCN will continue to make surveillance flights, though not approaching the Russian vessels as closely as before.

On July 11, David Johnston, Canadian ambassador to Moscow, was called to the Soviet foreign office to hear a complaint that on four occasions Canadian planes had "buzzed" Soviet ships at sea.

After investigation of the trawler incidents, the government now has ordered a ban on low flights over Soviet fishing vessels.

Tuesday a rumor made the rounds here that Russian trawlers had been seen in the mouth of the St. Lawrence River, supposedly to monitor radio communications during the big air defence exercise Sky Shield last Saturday.

Authorities discounted the rumor, apparently based on the report of an airline pilot. They said there were no Russian vessels in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

'Shoot Apartheid' Pratt's Mission

PRETORIA (Reuters)—Wealthy white farmer David Pratt, 53, said Tuesday he had a "violent urge" to shoot "the stinking monster" of South African racial laws when he pumped two bullets into Prime Minister Verwoerd at a farm show in April.

"If my intention had been to kill him, I could have," Pratt said in a long statement in the second day of his trial for attempted murder.

MENTAL CHECKUP

The court ordered him committed for two weeks to a mental institution for observation.

A psychiatrist, citing Pratt's history of mental disturbances and epileptic fits dating back to the age of eight, testified that he was unfit to plead on the charge.

Pratt said he wanted to "shoot apartheid" which he said "was gripping the throat of South Africa and preventing South Africa from achieving its rightful place among nations."

"But I did not fully associate that with the prime minister." He only wanted to maim Verwoerd to "give him opportunity to consider some of the things that were going on.

"To me," he said, "my abnormalities do not represent insanity. There is a pattern in everything that has taken place."

Pratt said he had returned from a trip to Europe early this year and was "horrified at the disintegration" while he was away.

STARTED IN 1954

He said his "sense of mission" had built up from 1954 and added "I can tell you now what I should have told you in 1954:

"South Africa has got to come out of her wilderness. She has a great and glorious future waiting for her under the basic laws of God and human beings which in the words of Mr. (Prime Minister) Macmillan is rule by merit not by pigment of skin."

SIMPLE PLUNGE

He urged South Africans to take one simple initial plunge "and throw nationalism out" if they are worthy of the future.

"If you are not worthy of it," Pratt added, "at least I shall never feel guilty again."

Russia or No Place, Says Leader

Sorokin Doubts That 'Sons' Will Ever Leave Province

NELSON (CP) — The spiritual leader of British Columbia's Sons of Freedom Doukhobors doubts whether the sect will ever leave the province.

Stefan Sorokin said here it boils down to "a migration to Russia or no place."

Asked if he would return to South America to continue an eight-year search for a new home for the Sons, Mr. Sorokin said he could only search "if my people wish me to."

He said that so far the radical sect has not expressed a wish.

In past years the Sons of Freedom have often announced migrations — back to Russia, their homeland, the likeliest.

8,000,000 Canadians Don't Belong to Church

OTTAWA (CP) — Between 8,000,000 and 9,000,000 Canadians do not belong to any church, Rev. Morse Robinson of the Anglican Church mission department, said Tuesday.

"The Christian in Canada could belong to a diminishing minority in the next century," he said.

Lumumba's Men Get Full Power In Congo Crisis

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—A joint session of the Congolese Parliament voted Tuesday to give "full powers" to the government of Patrice Lumumba during the present crisis.

Observers said Lumumba backers planned to make the unspecified powers retroactive to Sept. 1 to invalidate Lumumba's dismissal Sept. 5 by President Joseph Kasavubu.

ARREST WARRANT

In another development, a spokesman at Kasavubu's residence said Tuesday night that an arrest warrant has been made out against Gen. Victor Lundula, head of Lumumba's Congolese army. Lundula has been held responsible for freeing Lumumba after his arrest Monday.

No definition of the powers was given. But in asking that they be voted, Lumumba's information minister, Anicet Kashamura, said they would first be used to order the arrest of anyone claiming to be a minister who was not backed by a vote of confidence from Parliament.

CURB KASAVUBU

Kashamura said the powers would also be used to limit the political activity of Kasavubu, who named Senate President Joseph Ileo as premier in an attempt to dismiss Lumumba.

Loud cheers rang through the chamber as Lumumba strode in. Few opposition members were present. He told the joint session he bears no ill will now against Kasavubu.

"If Kasavubu wants a reconciliation, I am ready," he said.

Dag Under Fire

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The Soviet Union accused Dag Hammarskjold Tuesday of violating Security Council resolutions by taking action regarded as unfriendly toward Premier Patrice Lumumba of the Congo.

Valerian Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, asked for an immediate session of the council to consider the charges against the UN secretary-general, but he failed to get one.

IN LETTER

He made the request in a letter to Egidio Ortona of Italy, council president this month.

Zorin asked for a 3 p.m. meeting. But Ortona did not find enough support among other council members for an afternoon meeting. After private consultation, the president called a session for 11 a.m. today.

AFRICANS MEET

Outside UN headquarters, chief delegates of African nations met behind closed doors with the two rival delegations sent here from the Congo—one representing Lumumba and the other President Joseph Kasavubu.

Space 'Catch' Today

VANDENBURG BASE, Calif. (AP) — Discoverer XV roared into polar orbit Tuesday carrying a capsule the United States Air Force hopes to catch near Hawaii late today.

If recovered, it will be three in a row for the American side in the world "space ball" game. The first one recovered by the U.S. was pulled out of the sea. The second was snagged by a plane.

But Russia successfully brought back from orbit a far heavier capsule that contained animals.

SECOND STAGE

The air force announced the rocket's second stage had gone into orbit less than two hours after it was shot aloft.

On its 17th trip around the earth—about 6 p.m. PDT today—the satellite is to eject its capsule somewhere over the Arctic. Thirty minutes later planes trailing huge trapeze nets will try to snag the capsule as it parachutes toward the 60-by-200-mile target area north of Hawaii.

OTHER RECOVERIES

Discoverer XIV's capsule was recovered this way Aug. 19.

The capsule from Discoverer XII slipped past waiting planes Aug. 11 but was fished from the ocean minutes later.

Two days after the recovery of Discoverer XIV's capsule the Russians announced they had recovered a larger capsule carrying two dogs and some smaller animals.

Tory 'Win' Muddles Britons

LONDON (CP) — British newspaper readers can be forgiven if they are not clear on the results of the B.C. election.

"As they were—Tories win," says The Daily Express headline.

The Daily Telegraph doesn't make any mistake about the winning party, but . . . .

"Its nearest rivals, the Conservatives, have won 14 seats," it says.

The Times was the only London newspaper to tell its readers that the Social Credit, CCF and Liberals parties finished in that order.

Safety of Nikita, Castro, Nasser Big U.S. Worry

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States last night speedily rejected a Soviet protest against American regulations restricting Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to Manhattan Island during his attendance at the United Nations next week.

The U.S. said curbs on Khrushchev's movements were designed to protect him and "specifically to assure to Mr. Khrushchev the unhindered fulfillment of his mission to the United Nations."

UNUSUAL SPEED

The state department, acting with unusual speed, delivered its formal rejection less than six hours after Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov handed Secretary of State Christian A. Herter a Russian note protesting the restrictions.

The Soviet note complained that the restrictions are unwarranted and designed to worsen relations rather than improve them.

RESPONSIBILITIES

The American note rejected such suggestions and pointed out that under the UN headquarters agreement the United States has certain responsibilities regarding the protection of delegates and must assure "their unimpeded transit to and from the United Nations headquarters."

The state department's security problem was already formidable in view of the imminent arrival of Khrushchev, other top Communist bosses and United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser. But it was further magnified with the announcement that Cuban Premier Fidel Castro would lead the Cuban delegation to the UN meeting.

TRAVEL CURBS

The state department was considering the possibility of clamping travel restrictions on the bearded Cuban leader in view of the many anti-Castro refugees living in the New York area.

Officials said they were actually more worried about the possibility of danger to Castro, Hungarian Communist party chief Janos Kadar, and United Arab Republic President Abdel Nasser than they were to Khrushchev.

Fire Moving On Hospital

OLD PERLICAN, Nfld. (CP)—A forest fire was reported burning out of control Tuesday, moving directly towards a hospital.

Hospital staff in gas masks were evacuating patients as bulldozers threw up a fire break.

It was the second time within a week the 45 patients have been evacuated because of forest fires.

Cabinet Shuffle Certain

The remote far-northern riding of Atlin remained undecided yesterday while recounts appeared certain in three ridings won narrowly by Social Credit in Monday's provincial election.

With 10 polls out of 15 counted in Atlin, where 1,335 eligible voters are scattered over thousands of square miles of undeveloped country, Social Credit candidate W. J. Asselstine held a tenuous 20-vote lead over CCF opponent Frank Calder.

TORY FAR BACK

Asselstine, a former Liberal cabinet minister who won the seat in 1956, had 244 votes to 224 for Calder, who sat in the legislature for the riding from 1949 to 1956. The Progressive Conservative candidate was in last place with 110 votes.

With Atlin still doubtful the standing of the parties is:

Social Credit	32	39
CCF	15	10
Liberals	4	2
Labor	0	1

Meanwhile, the tumult and shouting over, speculation turned to new cabinet appointments and the possibility that final tallies might see further Social Credit losses in the Vancouver Island ridings of Nanaimo and the Islands, Comox and the interior constituency of Yale.

FISHING VOTES

Official election result won't be known for 10 days until absentee ballots are counted Sept. 24—and in the two Island ridings, at least, CCF candidates are hoping to pick up enough votes from fishermen to swing the balance from defeat to victory.

In Nanaimo Recreation Minister Earle Westwood has a majority of 112 over CCFer Colin Cameron while in Comox Socred Dan Campbell has a

Turkey Raisers Angry

SASKATOON (CP)—British Columbia turkey raisers Monday blasted the Canadian wheat board for selling and the board of grain commissioners for grading mildewed grain from the delayed 1959 harvest as feed, thereby causing heavy loss of birds through a form of poisoning.

It was reported to the annual convention of the Canadian Turkey Federation here that some B.C. producers had losses of as high as 5,000 turkeys from this cause.

This mildewed feed grain was said to have come from the grain left under the snow on the prairie and harvested this spring.

Police Player First Witness In Gaming Trial

A Victoria police constable who ran $5 of city money up to $5.50 before cashing in his chips, was first witness yesterday at the trial of William Plotnikoff on a charge of keeping a common gaming house.

Const. John Adams told of entering the Sports Club, 654 Yates, about 10.50 p.m. July 25, in plain clothes. After watching a group of men playing cards at a table, he asked a bystander what he had to do to play.

BLUE APRON

Then he went to accused, who was wearing a blue apron, and stated his wish. He was given a card to fill in with his name, address and occupation, and wrote on it: "John Thompson, 2616 Quadra, laborer." Then accused handed him a membership card.

Soon he and about five others waiting were called to a table, and accused began selling poker chips.

"How many chips?" accused asked the witness.

"I noticed some of the others asked for $10 worth, but I was using city money so I asked for $5. For that I received four blue chips and three red chips."

(Later evidence as to the color-value of the chips indicated he had been given $4.75 in chips.)

Witness said they played mostly high-ball poker, with the deal rotating among the players.

"I dealt about four times. We played about 17 hands while I was there."

"Have any luck?" asked prosecutor T. P. O'Grady.

"Yes, I won one pot about $7.50. On most of the others I passed, and I lost a few."

"After about 20 minutes of play accused came to the table and extracted one red chip (25 cents) from in front of each player."

After 25 minutes of play witness went to accused at the office wicket and cashed in his chips, receiving $5.50. Then he left the club, spoke to police Sgt. John Perry and members of the raiding squad, and returned to the police station.

RETURNED TO CLUB

When he returned to the club at 2.20 a.m. accused was still there, and when he saw the witness accused said:

"I guess it was the glasses that fooled me, John."

Sgt. Perry gave testimony as to the raid itself, staged at about 11.50 p.m.

The trial, which continued until after 1 p.m. yesterday, was adjourned to Friday morning. Lloyd McKenzie is appearing as counsel for the defence.

Cancer Cause, Says Doctor

Hormone-Injected Meat Dangerous?

WINNIPEG (CP) — A German doctor, who has written books about cancer, says meat from fowl and cattle injected with hormones to stimulate fattening can cause cancer and heart disease.

Dr. Johanna Budwig of Munster, Germany, made the statement in an interview Tuesday.

She was visiting relatives in Winnipeg after attending an international congress on nutrition in Washington and now will go to Tokyo to lecture at the university there.

Dr. Budwig, who has done research at the university in Munster and at the Institute for Fat Research there, claims meats from artificially fattened cattle or fowl create insoluble or "hardened" fats in the body which in turn can lead to cancer.

She said that in Swjtzerland it has been proved there is a direct relation between cancer and the hormone-injected fowl and cattle, and that this induced fattening process has been "forbidden" in that country.

She said she has successfully treated cancer patients by eliminating these meats from their diets and substituting "natural oils" such as linseed oil and corn and sunflower oils.

She also claims that some commercial preserves, such as pickles, contain harmful additives.

The bureau of statistics said higher food prices were responsible for all of the increases.

Gulf Island Ferry Suing Seafarers

VANCOUVER (CP) — The independent Seafarers' International Union is being sued for $10,000 and general damages by the owners and operators of the Gulf Island ferry, Island Princess.

The vessel's service has been partly disrupted since Sept. 1 when a Gulf-SIU contract expired and the union set up pickets.

Statement of claim on behalf of Gulf Island Navigation Limited and Coast Ferries Limited was filed Monday in the Vancouver court registry.

Trial is expected shortly because an injunction presently prohibits SIU picketing of Coast Ferries, but not Gulf Island, which owns the Princess.

It sailed on schedule Tuesday from Steveston with 150 passengers, but with no cargo.

Your Good Health

'Living With' an Ailment Doesn't Mean Giving Up

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I recently had a diagnosis of emphysema and was advised that I would have to live with it, as nothing much could be done about it. However a friend seemed to think he had read an article in your column saying that something now could be done to bring relief to emphysema sufferers. Is this so?—F. J. W."

★ ★ ★

Well, yes and no. Emphysema is a stretching of the lung tissues—the lungs no longer contract as tautly as they used to. The result is that you don't exhale as completely, and hence can't draw as much fresh air into the lungs as you inhale. A certain amount of stale air remains. A larger than normal amount, that is, since, of course, the lungs never do completely empty as you exhale.

Your friend is misinformed as to there being any new remedy for emphysema. We can't put the springiness back into these lung tissues. On the other hand, there are things that can be done to make life more pleasant for patients.

For one thing, smoking becomes a pointless habit when one has emphysema, because any smoke (and carbon dioxide) drawn into the lungs displaces that much air which might better be inhaled.

In some cases, and you must depend on your doctor to decide whether yours is one that is suitable, it is helpful to take a few breaths of oxygen from time to time. Some patients have found the expense of having a tank of oxygen and an inhaling mask at home or in the office was justified. Small tanks are available.

Many times some other condition is present, too, and should be treated. For example, if there is an obstruction in the air passages, it can be corrected. Obviously this will aid the patient whose breathing has become difficult because of emphysema.

Many people are shallow breathers. Learning to breathe more deeply, using the deeper parts of the lungs as well as just the upper parts, will help them.

Sometimes, too, nervous tension contributes to leading a person into rapid, overly shallow breathing. A doctor, noting this, can convince the patient of the value of stopping to relax every little while, letting the lungs work at their natural tempo.

Naturally when the problem is that a person is not getting enough oxygen, it is not sensible for him to use up too much in sudden spurts of needless activity.

All these things, you see, can add up to quite a lot of relief. Don't anticipate that some marvelous medicine is going to cure emphysema. No such thing exists. But it is surprising how much better one feels when he makes use of a number of available factors, each of which helps some.

Maybe the real meaning of "living with" a chronic condition is doing all the things that will help. Living with it doesn't mean surrendering and foolishly assuming that nothing can be done. A lot can be done.

★ ★ ★

"Dear Dr. Molner: Our baby son was born with what our pediatrician calls hypospadias. Should it be corrected by surgery? If so, when? We have had conflicting advice.—Mrs. P.S."

★ ★ ★

Hypospadias (a faulty development of the urinary outlet) is a not-too-common defect. Generally it can be corrected surgically. In early childhood, it isn't of any important significance, but it should be corrected before the boy starts going to school. See a urologist to determine the extent of the defect. He will decide when the correction should be made.

★ ★ ★

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would it be possible to have diabetes for a year and not have it show up in a urine test, yet still show in a blood-sugar test?—S.R.S."

★ ★ ★

Yes. In early stages it can be discovered by a high blood sugar even though the urine contains no sugar.

'Apartheid Affront to Gospel'

Police State Near—Bishop

LONDON (Reuters) — Dr. Ambrose Reeves, deported Anglican Bishop of Johannesburg, said Tuesday he is coming rapidly to the conclusion that South Africa "is very closely resembling a police state."

The 60-year-old bishop, an outspoken critic of South Africa's racial segregation laws, arrived here by plane after being ordered out of South Africa 48 hours after his return from a five-month stay in England.

Reeves, a Briton, had fled to England because he feared arrest following racial riots last spring.

Asked whether the South African government's attitude toward him was linked to his statements about the shooting of Negroes at Sharpeville in March, he replied:

"I have a suspicion they do not like it because I forced another side of the story to be told other than the police side."

Reeves said he hoped to return to South African some time and added: "I am still Bishop of Johannesburg and it is my intention to remain such."

"From my own experience over some years now," Reeves said, "I have been forced to the conclusion that apartheid is in itself an evil thing which is an affront to the gospel of Jesus Christ."

The bishop said he had had "no alternative as a Christian leader" but to "point out the wanton injustice and unnecessary suffering that goes on in South Africa all the time."

He said that he always had kept clear of politics and never had addressed a political meeting. But during his stay in South Africa it became clear that "more and more people are looking to an increase of pressure on the South African government and are feverishly hoping that it comes quickly."

Chiang Charged By New Party

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — A new political force shaping up on Formosa to challenge Nationalist China's one-party rule may be the first non-Communist opposition to succeed, foreign diplomatic sources say.

President Chiang Kai-shek's ruling Kuomintang (Nationalist party) has been charged with totalitarian methods in cities and villages.

Kuomintang opponents are attempting to give birth to a new political party called the Forum on Improvement of Local Elections.

They are levelling an accusation similar to one of those which toppled Syngman Rhee's long rule of South Korea—rigged local elections.

The Kuomintang, which has ruled for more than 30 years, replied: "We do not attach any importance to the new movement and we do not intend to recognize it."

The new force will challenge the Kuomintang only in municipal elections. It supports Chiang's basic policies of defeating the Communists and returning to the mainland.

Conservationist Sees End Of Coho, Chinook Fishing

VANCOUVER (CP) — West Coast coho and chinook salmon fishing will soon be wiped out unless Canada and the United States co-operate more on conservation, Washington State Fisheries Director Milo Moore warned yesterday.

He answered charges by Ottawa fisheries officials that he was merely politicking by starting the present "coho war" between Canadian and U.S. fishermen.

The battle began when Moore allowed U.S. fishermen to take Fraser-bound coho off Point Roberts while conserving their own run. He claimed he was doing this because Canada refused to stop fishermen taking coho from the same run on the Canadian side of Juan de Fuca Strait.

Sell Surpluses Farmers Urge

OTTAWA (CP) — Western grain producers got a hearing from Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Prairie cabinet ministers but no firm promises of further federal assistance Tuesday.

The liaison committee of the producers, appearing at Mr. Diefenbaker's invitation, pressed for more aggressive measures to dispose of agricultural surpluses, particularly wheat, and urged a new study of the squeeze on the farmer from rising costs and declining returns.

The committee suggested federal study of the U.S. surplus disposal program, particularly the agreement with India under which 587,000,000 bushels of wheat will be supplied for Indian currency.

It urged research into other uses of agricultural surpluses. Agriculture Minister Harkness said such research is going on all the time.

To the proposed study of the cost-prize squeeze, Mr. Harkness said the government had initiated an inquiry into the rising cost of farm machinery.

The farmers said there is no plan for a further meeting.

Harvest crews were operating at peak capacity this week as Prairie farmers took advantage of favorable weather and hurried to finish taking off what promises to be an excellent crop.

Farmers and business men whose livelihood depends on the grain—and more specifically the wheat—crop are looking to a wheat harvest of some 472,000,000 bushels.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimates Saskatchewan will harvest 291,000,000 bushels of wheat, Alberta 103,000,000 and Manitoba 59,000,000.

Harvesting in Saskatchewan is 80 per cent completed, in Alberta between 70 and 90 per cent and in Manitoba about 80 per cent.

The crop is expected to put new life into farms and businesses which suffered last year when vast quantities of grain had to be left on the ground because of early winter weather.

Businessmen are watching the crop almost as closely as the farmers. Last year, with money in short supply, smaller businesses in outlying communities were hit first and hardest but lack of buying power gradually worked back to affect wholesalers and manufacturers.

At July 31, end of the 1959-60 crop year, some 536,200,000 bushels of wheat from previous years remained in storage.

Pilot Drive For Chest Successful

This year's Community Chest pilot drive has shown success after 24 hours of canvassing. First of 20 firms taking part is "over the top," Bernard Van Aggelen, campaign chairman, announced yesterday.

With some canvassing still to be done, employees of Macdonald's Consolidated wholesale grocers, Viewfield Road, have contributed more than $500, a 25 per cent increase over last year, winning an award for the second year in succession.

The pilot campaign is being conducted by 22 members of the Chartered Life Underwriters' Association, led by John Daniel.

ONE lesson to be drawn from the election is that there is no room for four major parties in B.C. politics. The Conservatives in particular are fighting a lost rearguard action. Ironically the Conservatives equalled the CCF's percentage gain in votes while both Socreds and Liberals were losing percentage ground, but this is illusory. In practically every riding the Conservatives trailed badly and their popular vote was a mere thirteenth of the provincial total.

This will be a marked disappointment to Mr. Deane Finlayson, who has tried valiantly for eight years to rebuild this once important element of the provincial political scene. It indicates that for all useful purposes the Conservatives have passed out of the political orbit in B.C. The Socreds have absorbed them. Since Mr. Finlayson himself failed for the fourth time to gain a seat in the legislature it also presages his departure from his group's leadership.

Yet pre-election fears that a vote for either Liberals or Conservatives would aid the CCF have proved groundless. The Liberals still have a solid core of support and their total vote is substantial, but on the evidence of Monday's election the Socreds would have beaten the CCF in a straight fight. Were there only these two parties in the field the balance would probably be more in favor of Social Credit, for as free enterprise advocates Liberal supporters would be unlikely to turn to the CCF.

Although it dropped 7 per cent of the votes since the last election the Social Credit party held strongly to its dominant position and is patently the recognized alternative to socialism in B.C. Now headed for what will be a continuous 12-year spell of office the Bennett administration has stamped its imprint forcibly on B.C. and will not be easy to dislodge.

There is no deduction to be drawn on the national scale from this, however. As in Alberta the Socred movement in B.C. is a provincial one, pertinent to the local scene, and public confidence in it is related to the peculiarities of provincial government. In the federal realm a different set of values comes into play, as is reflected when federal elections are held.

Ships for the Navy

CANADA cannot match the big powers in nuclear armament and does not favor this field in any case. Its disarmament efforts are directed towards elimination of nuclear weapones, which in itself would be an immense gain. The world would breathe much more easily were armaments confined to what is known as conventional weapons, and if this could be effected it would be a major victory for peace.

Outside the nuclear realm Canada must keep its end up in partnership with its allies. Neutrality could be no sort of role for this country, which as Mr. Howard Green reminds us was not built through neutral timidity. A withdrawal from defence participation would also weaken Canadian influence in allied councils and leave her on the outside with no voice to speak effectively.

One of Canada's main contributions to the defensive pool is the efficiency of her navy, which is why RCN's hopes for a second ship construction program should be well founded. Just as business and industry renew and improve the machines and facilities to be used, so must the RCN replace its older ships if it is to maintain its strength and striking capacity.

When the present building program is completed—six ships are still under construction—it will have put 20 destroyer-type vessels into commission since 1950. Of necessity the earliest of these are not so up-to-date as those yet on the stocks. The RCN still has some 11 ships of last war or immediate postwar vintage, however, which in effect means they are long out of date.

Ottawa reports suggest that next year's estimates will provide for a start on another building program, obviously the height of wisdom else there is not much use having a navy. Techniques and strategy change and there is a continuing need for new ships even on a moderate scale. Within the compass of its responsibilities the RCN must be kept supplied with the armament necessary to its existence.

Victoria has a particular interest in any new shipbuilding program which might be launched, for its two yards depend largely on naval orders to retain the skilled shipwrights and maintain the facilities so needed for the defence of Canada in any emergency. Yards employing full crews of workers are also an important part of the local economy.

Labor a Minor Issue

TWO aspects of the labor situation were given prominence in pre-election campaigning: the new political party born of the marriage of the CCF and CLC, and the restrictive labor legislation known as Bill 43. In the end neither seems to have had much influence on the outcome.

Mr. Hazen Argue, CCF national leader, appears to be assuming far too much when he describes the election as an encouraging augury for the new party. It could with equal if not greater justification be regarded as a rejection of the merger by trade unionists.

Analysis of the popular vote shows that while the Social Credit share dropped by about 7 per cent compared with 1956, CCF support increased only about 4 per cent.

Obviously there was a substantial protest vote against the government, but it did not go in appreciable measure to the CCF. If there had been a wave of support for the CCF on the merger with the CLC and on its stand against Bill 43 the party's standing would have improved by something a lot more spectacular than 4 per cent.

In attempting to interpret the defeat of Labor Minister Wicks, who piloted Bill 43 through the House, it should be remembered that the failure of a minister to hold his seat can be a purely personal defeat for reasons divorced from government policy. If his was an industrial riding with a high proportion of trade unionists on the voters' list, the conclusion might be different. As it is, his electors are not the kind who care very much one way or the other about labor laws, so his defeat has little significance in that connection.

Interpreting the News

Chill in the Air

By ALAN HARVEY Canadian Press Staff Writer

IT seems almost sacrilegious to say so, but a new tone is creeping into comment on President De Gaulle.

There's a distinct chill in the editorial air. Long accustomed to kid-glove treatment, De Gaulle now finds himself treated like an ordinary politician. His press conference last week has created a definite sense of uneasiness in several Allied countries.

Official comment tends to be restrained, partly because of De Gaulle's huge reputation and partly because everybody knows he is France's indispensable man.

Newspaper comment is less inhibited and, taken as a whole, may be an accurate guide to the thinking of governments.

In West Germany, the Suddeutsche Zeitung described De Gaulle as a "revolutionary." The Spectator, an independent British weekly, said he is trying to peddle a "flushed and fanatic brand" of nationalism.

The Sunday Times, a Conservative paper, reported that De Gaulle's reflections had embarrassed and disturbed the British government.

The Economist, an independent British weekly, said De Gaulle seemed to be a "man from another age, working from the textbooks of half a century ago."

There wasn't much editorial acclaim even in France, though De Gaulle's remarks about the country being "lucid and serene" probably pandered to French chauvinism. The independent paper, Le Monde, had some sharp things to say, and the left-wing l'Express, whose editorials have been consistently anti-Gaullist, was even blunter in its disapproval.

In a news dispatch, it also passed along a warning that De Gaulle is due for a shock in Algeria. Writing from Tunis, Jean Daniel said that Tunisia and the Algerian rebel government are getting ready to announce their "fusion" into one nation, as a means of internationalizing the Algerian question.

Until recently, President Bourguiba of Tunisia has consistently used his influence to try to mediate between France and the rebels. A shift in his attitude would make a big difference.

Algeria apart, the specific criticisms of De Gaulle's Sept. 5 conference are concentrated upon his disparaging remarks about the United Nations and his insistence upon the importance of national sovereignties in Europe. Several commentators contend there is a basic contradiction between this stress on sovereignty and the idea of a "confederation" of European countries.

Perhaps the French president doesn't trouble to read his press clippings. If he does, he may find it hard to reconcile the current criticisms with the golden opinions he was getting only a few months ago.

'That was a bright stroke telling Grandma there is a famous Grandma-artist in America who is 100 years old and didn't take up painting till she was 77.'

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

THE Rome Olympiad is over and the sports world, it is said, is looking ahead to Tokyo four years hence wondering how fabulous the record will be by then.

Fabulous is a much-abused word, especially in the movie industry, but it is aptly applied to the shattering of previous standards that marked the recently completed Olympics.

Incidentally one hopes a record of a different kind will be established before the Tokyo Olympias—in Canada. This kind of record would be a new awareness of what the Olympics mean in the matter of national prestige, and a determination to see that Canadian athletes are better trained, developed and supported.

Like it or not the Olympics are now judged to reflect a country's maturity and capacity—in considerable part at least — and it is not comforting that Canada should be among the poor sisters of Olympic nations.

* * *

So many records were broken in Rome, particularly in running, swimming and jumping, that one wonders when the end will come to such record-breaking. Athletes can scarcely go on forever improving on past performances; there must come a halt someday to physical feats.

So it would seem, except that similar thoughts have been voiced for many years and new marks still keep on being made.

It is as though some new physical well-spring had revealed fresh and unsuspected possibilities. This is the jet age, the age of mechanical speed, so it is consistent that man on foot should match relatively the progress he makes in the air or in an automobile.

There is little else, perhaps, he can improve on. The humanities, the philosophies of human conduct, are static because they are basic and unchanging, and they constitute one realm in which man has to admit most defeat. At least he hasn't managed to break any records in applying these verities to his collective benefit. Perhaps it is his inability to reflect an advance in his inner self that forces him to shine in extreme outward effort.

It must be a psychological matter, notwithstanding the techniques of training that have served to increase the performances of athletes. The four-minute-mile barrier is a good illustration. It was for so long held to be insurmountable that no other explanation of its defeat is logical. Once a runner-doctor applied his mind to the removal of the inhibition —Bannister was not a great natural runner — the mental load fell off other competitors. Running a mile in four minutes and less is now a commonplace.

* * *

Something of this release must have spread to athletes in general. No longer, apparently, is there a limit beyond which physical effort cannot go. Records fall so frequently as to suggest no inhibition remains to block improvement in any sporting realm. Time is being left at the starting post.

The Olympics have of course introduced another factor, that of desire and will to win. Men are inspired to feats beyond their previous best because of the intense competition that has become part of the international scene, and in so doing they outdo the record books also.

This keenness is shown in pre-Olympic preparation and the time, effort and money that is diverted to athletic endeavor. It is here that Canada has a record to shoot at—her own poor one.

And yet, no matter the influences at work, some day there must come an end to the fabulous record-breaking currently going on. Unless it be that a race of supermen, sportswise only, is being fashioned.

In Defence of Colonialism

Social and Economic Development

By R. J. B.
(Concluded)

IT is interesting to note that Colonial Development and Welfare assistance funds provided by the United Kingdom government in the form of outright grants have covered almost every major social and economic activity. The main emphasis, however, was placed on research, agriculture, communications, education, health and housing.

Under the current assistance scheme the sum of $66,000,000 has been allotted for research and sur-

Under the current assistance schemeys. Some 33 per cent of this amount has been devoted to agricultural research involving pest control, plant and animal disease studies, soil surveys and other such programs. More than $3,000,000 has been granted for research on insecticides; nearly $3,000,000 is being spent on investigations into new uses for colonial products and almost $2,000,000 was used for locust research.

* * *

Medical research, to which about $8,000,000 has been committed, has concentrated on the most prevalent tropical diseases, such as malaria, filariasis, scrub typhus and virus diseases. Another $5,000,000 is being spent on tsetse and trypanosomiasis control.

Nearly $75,000,000 has been committed to agriculture with assistance concentrating on practical advice and help and the development of profitable farming schemes likely to bring continuing benefits to the many native farmers.

Vast plans to combat soil erosion, the opening up of new lands and the establishing of drainage and irrigation schemes are well under way and already profiting the local inhabitants.

* * *

In developing and extending communications in the colonies and protectorates, the CD and W fund provided the staggering sum of $175,000,000 for roads alone. Another $12,000,000 was granted for port development in seaboard colonies, along with more than $2,000,000 for upgrading aeronautical communications and meteorological services.

In the matter of education, more than $117,000,000 has already been committed — $63,000,000 to primary and secondary schools and $54,000,000 to university, technical and vocational institutions.

A considerable portion of this vast amount was used for teacher training colleges and technical training establishments, which will provide home grown teachers and technicians capable of playing a leading role in the continuing development of their countries.

Health and housing in the dependencies have received grants totalling $123,000,000 toward the improvement of services, town planning development, and water supplies. These schemes are setting a standard now being followed by many other countries all over the world.

* * *

If further proof were needed that the British colonial system is not the evil thing that many seem to think, one has only to observe what has happened in the former colonial territories of India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Ghana—or for that matter, Canada.

Not one of these countries has broken away from the Commonwealth. Each of them has retained the British parliamentary system. Each has accepted the English language as either a first or second tongue. And each remains on the friendliest terms with the United Kingdom. It is also a fact that a number of protectorates have expressed the desire to continue under the colonial system rather than adopt another form of administration.

These, even the most hardened anti-colonialist will admit, are hardly the attitudes to be expected of a suffering people released from oppressive bondage.

Perhaps the words of a former secretary of state for the colonies best sums up the attitude of the United Kingdom towards its responsibilities in this field. He said:

"First, Britain at all times stands ready . . . to defend the colonial territories against external aggression or internal subversion.

"Secondly, Britain gives grant-aid to colonial administrations whose revenues fall short of essential commitments.

"Thirdly, it is on Britain in the main that colonial territories rely for public loans and private capital.

"Fourthly, Britain furnishes much of the technical knowledge and skill required both to frame and to carry out development projects, and also the facilities for training local people to do this work themselves."

From the foregoing it is obvious that colonialism today, as administered by Great Britain at any rate, is far removed from the days of the Boston Tea Party, the Black Hole of Calcutta and the Australian penal colony.

Royal Commissions

Why Appoint Outsiders?

(From The Edmonton Journal)

IN a report just published by the British Institute of Economic Affairs, the veteran Parliamentarian, Sir Alan Herbert, makes scathing comment on royal commissions and other "outside" committees of inquiry appointed by governments. The report comes at a time when there are no less than four such commissions appointed by the federal government in action, in addition to others appointed by provincial governments. In Ontario alone there are five.

Sir Alan says that government departments are supposed to function "as expert committees on their special subjects. Between them they have all the powers, and should have all the knowledge necessary to make or amend laws." When they do not have all the relevant facts, he suggests, "they should send their trusted servants about the country, gathering facts, figures and opinions in all the informed and interested quarters . . . Why appoint outsiders?"

He adds that he is convinced that governments sometimes appoint commissions (at great expense to the taxpayers) "merely to stifle awkward discussion and to postpone or avoid action. . . . Their purpose is not so much for digging up the truth as for digging it in, like a dog burying a bone, except the dog does eventually return to the bone."

In addition to royal commissions, there are now at work in Canada numerous select committees of parliament and legislatures and of civil servants. These, Sir Herbert believes, are a good instrument of government but their proliferation "should not be allowed to weaken the grasp and authority of the main body." The expert "can be a good servant but a mischievous master."

He denies that royal and other outside commissions serve that purpose but, on the whole, represent "a serious failure in the machinery of government."

Some might believe that Sir Alan goes too far in his condemnation of royal commissions without denying that the practice of appointing them has gone to extremes. Canada has an enormous army of civil servants, many of whom are paid as experts. Surely they could have accomplished much of the work that has been done by royal commissions without their added expense to the public.

Royal commissions have done and will continue to do valuable work in the public interest. However, the practice of appointing them should not be abused. They should be reserved for special occasions.

12 Months of School

(From Christian Science Monitor)

MORE and more high schools across America have been conducting summer schools and in many of them the number of pupils in the summer session is practically as large as in the regular terms. This is the report of Lawrence G. Derthick, United States commissioner of education.

Doubtless this indicates, as Mr. Derthick believes from other evidence as well, that young Americans are attaching a new and wholesome importance to education. Possibly it indicates still another point as to the use of school plant.

When this continent was primarily agricultural there was practical reason for concentrating the classroom term in the colder months and turning children out to help on the farm in the summer. Now that America is predominantly urban and child labor is outlawed, the fefect of a three-month vacation for teen-agers is debatable.

Some of the high schoolers apparently are saying to themselves, "The school is there; why not go?" Grownups may reasonably ask, "Why not a 12-month school year, perhaps divided into quarters?" This might involve some rotation and rest periods for teaching staffs. And if Johnny or Marilyn needs a vacation, it might be as welcome in December as in June.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

THERE is only one thing worse than having to keep a secret. And that is forgetting what the Sam Hill the secret was.

On our return from a visit to one of our kinfolk, my son and I were preparing to retire and put out the lamp.

"By the way," said my son, his hand on the little wheel that turns down the wick, "what was that thing we weren't supposed to mention?"

"What thing?" I enquired.

"Don't you remember? We were let in, very confidential, on something. A secret that we weren't supposed to breathe to a soul."

"Oh, yeah," I agreed. "Now what was it?"

We paused and struggled with memory. But it wouldn't come back.

My son blew out the lamp and silence descended on the cabin. I was unable to come to grips with sleep. What in blazes was that secret we had been let in on? Inch by inch, I went over the details of the evening at the family gathering.

"Hey!" hissed my son. "Have you thought of it yet?"

Finally we fell asleep. And we never have remembered what we were instructed to forget.

Most frustrating.

After Socreds Tories Ready

Progressive Conservatives must remain an active force in provincial politics to provide the people with the only alternative between free enterprise and socialism when Social Credit is finally beaten, Oak Bay Conservative James A. A. George said last night.

"Both the CCF and the Liberals have said they will nationalize the B.C. Electric," said the defeated Oak Bay candidate.

GO THEY MUST

"So when the Socreds go, as go they must, the B.C. Electric will be nationalized unless the Progressive Conservatives are here."

Mr. George conceded that Social Credit was at present receiving the backing of a large number of Tories, but predicted that there will be a massive swing to the party when the Socreds were beaten.

"If we aren't here, where are all these people going to go?" he asked.

JAMES A. A. GEORGE
. . . socialism or us

Mr. George said he did not know "what went wrong" with the campaign as far as his party was concerned but said it was significant that in those ridings where there were strong CCF candidates the Social Credit candidates stood out. Where the CCF was not a threat the people voted Liberal.

FEAR CAMPAIGN

He blamed this on the campaign of fear waged by "the politically illiterate industrial types with their advertisements of Social Credit or socialism."

"Those industrialists have made their fortunes and their living from Canada and they've shown an alarming lack of responsibility to the country which has made it possible for them," Mr. George stated.

1,000 VOTE LOSS

He said this fear campaign had cost him at least 1,000 votes in the final week of the campaign.

"The whole picture was obscure," he added. "The people voted for Wenner-Gren yet I feel deep in my heart that Wenner-Gren is the last person they want in B.C."

Mr. George concluded by saying he sincerely thanked "those Conservatives who had the courage of their convictions and stuck by the party."

Bennett Back Today Four Seats in Doubt

113 edge over Fred Wood of the CCF.

The Yale fight is much closer. Irvine F. Corbett is only 34 votes ahead of his CCF opponent.

Premier Bennett, who spent election day in his home town of Kelowna, is expected to return here today and will map his future plans before taking time off for a vacation.

DOUBLE DEFEAT

Biggest job facing him is the selection of two new cabinet ministers to replace Agriculture Minister Newton Steacy, who went down to defeat in North Vancouver, and Labor Minister Lyle Wicks, beaten in Dewdney.

Names being mentioned include Frank Richter of Similkameen and John Tisdalle, Saanich, as possible selections for the agricultural post.

NO CONFIDENCE

Mr. Richter was passed over in favor of Mr. Steacy in 1957 while Mr. Tisdalle obviously won local farming support when he refused to express his confidence in Mr. Steacy's control of his department during the recent campaign.

The premier must also allot the two portfolios held by Mr. Wicks—labor and commercial transport.

SKILLINGS POST?

Observers feel that the labor post may go to someone already in the cabinet as an added duty and that Premier Bennett's close friend Waldo Skillings may get the commercial transport portfolio.

However, there is another school of thought that the premier will pass over Mr. Skillings at this time in order to keep harmony in the reduced ranks of his backbenchers.

BUSINESS LOSS

Mr. Skillings would also have to give up his profitable insurance business if he went into the cabinet.

Late counting Tuesday gave the CCF its 15th member, in Delta, where Jim Rhodes had come from behind in last reports Monday night to lead Social Credit MLA George Massey.

TAKEN HOME

Mr. Rhodes' election wasn't determined until Tuesday because one ballot box had been taken home uncounted by a deputy returning officer Monday night.

Earlier, Mrs. Camille Mather, CCF, had taken the other Delta seat from Social Credit's Donald Riggan, who created a campaign sensation when he admitted he was an ex-convict.

SECRET SERVICE

Riggan, who said he served time in Prince Albert Penitentiary for theft of public funds as part of a Canadian secret service assignment, polled more than 17,000 votes, however.

In the popular vote counting, the CCF party was the only one to make significant gains, taking 33 per cent compared with 28 per cent in the 1956 balloting.

Social Credit, with 46 per cent in 1956, fell to 40 per cent this time, while the Liberals, who had 22 per cent in 1956 dropped to 20 per cent.

The Conservatives polled seven per cent of the votes this time, up from the four-per-cent figure of 1956, but they ran a full slate of 52 candidates in 1960, compared with 22 in the previous campaign.

POSSIBLY ATLIN

CCF seat gains came at the expense of Social Credit in Delta, Dewdney, Revelstoke, Vancouver East and possibly Atlin.

The Liberals took two from Social Credit and picked up the Fernie seat held for the last 40 years by Tom Uphill, an Independent Labor candidate who at 86 didn't contest this election.

GREGORY TAKEN

Social Credit took one seat from the Liberals, that of George Gregory in Victoria.

There was something for all the federal politicians in the results of the election.

Social Credit followers, without representation in the federal House of Commons since the 1958 general election, found Premier Bennett's victory sunny indeed despite loss of seven seats.

They looked on it as a vote of confidence, a rejection of Liberal and Socialist programs, a reflection of discontent with the federal Progressive Conservative administration and a happy omen for the next federal vote which might come next year.

The Socialist CCF, Liberals and Conservatives all found a silver lining in the cloud of defeat.

JUBILANT POINT

CCF followers pointed jubilantly to a gain of four seats, three at the expense of Social Credit.

The Liberals, already heartened by turnover victories in New Brunswick and Quebec elections in June, doubled their strength.

For the party's officials around the capital, this more than offset any disappointment at the drop in the Liberal share of the popular vote.

LITTLE SOLACE

The Conservatives found solace only in their increase in the popular vote.

Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta said gains made by the CCF probably were less significant than the fact that the Tories failed to win a single seat.

NOT SURPRISED

Commenting on the Social Credit victory, Mr. Manning said he is very pleased with the outcome, but not surprised.

"I couldn't conceive of the people doing anything else in the light of the trend of progress that British Columbia has enjoyed under a Social Credit government," he said.

Immigrants Held Up For Winter

OTTAWA (CP)—The government, faced with the threat of heavy winter unemployment, has taken steps to restrict the flow of certain categories of immigrants to this country and will broaden the restrictions at the end of the month.

On Sept. 1, the department began restricting such categories as construction workers, minegs and loggers.

Effective Sept. 30, the restrictions will include agricultural workers, engineering and industrial laboratory technicians, office clerks, draughtsmen and salesmen.

Ten migrating sandhill cranes stopped briefly in the Metchosin area before continuing their southward flight, A. R. Davidson of the ornithological group of the Victoria Natural History Society, said yesterday.

The 10 cranes were sighted Sunday and Monday in fields near the beaches west of Metchosin.

Berlin Corridor

Don't Misuse Air Reds Warn West

BERLIN (AP) — The Soviet Union warned the West Tuesday against what it called misuse of the air corridors to isolated Berlin.

The Soviet commandant in East Berlin, Maj.-Gen. Nikolai Zakharov, said the Western Allies will have to bear the consequences if they fail to prevent use of the corridors by West Germans staging provocations against East Germany.

He charged in a note to the three Western commandants that they have allowed "revenge-seekers and militarists" to fly from West Germany to Berlin.

Zakharov asserted the air corridors and other access routes to Berlin were placed at the disposal of the Western powers only for the use of their garrisons in Berlin.

Commercial airliners make dozens of flights daily through the corridors. There is no bar to their use by West Germans.

Zakharov's note also rejected an Aug. 31 Allied protest against East German interference with free travel in Berlin.

The East Germans tightened their squeeze on Berlin Tuesday by announcing they would no longer recognize passports issued to West Berliners by the West German government.

West's Old Terms Don't Fit in Africa

The western world, suddenly and recently aware of a problem-ridden Africa, must change its thinking about those problems before they can be understood.

Richard J. Bower, editor-in-chief of The Daily Colonist, who lived and worked in eastern, central and South Africa for 15 years, made this clear in a speech yesterday to the Victoria Kiwanis Club.

"We are too apt to judge these problems by terms with which we are familiar," he said. "We're too prone to believe that all blacks, feel, think and act alike, that all are brothers under the skin."

"Nothing could be further from the truth."

Mr. Bower, whose topic was "African Tribalism," said there were as many racial separations in Africa as there are in Europe, or more; each with its own different customs, cultures and physical attributes.

RICHARD J. BOWER
. . . strength rules

Basically the Africans south of the Sahara Desert are divided into three major racial groups—Bantu, Nilotic and Hamitic. These groups have split again into scores of tribal groups.

Lacking any written language, these tribes have no means of inter-communication. Each lives to itself, governed by its chief and witch-doctors.

The Africans, said Mr. Bower, recognize only one power: strength. Kindness or generosity they consider weaknesses. Consequently it is strength that rules. Strong warrior tribes prey upon weaker tribes until the latter move away out of reach.

The apparent tide of "nationalism" in Africa, possibly triggered by the Sudan crisis, has given rise to recent problems in Africa.

Today, instead of pulling together to achieve their goals, the people of Africa have no common ground except a recognition of strength.

"This situation will remain until the Africans unite themselves. Until then, might is right even if there appears to be some show of democracy. There will probably be a return to conditions as they were before the white people went to Africa—the struggle of tribe against tribe."

Does tension cause churning stomach?

Fast-paced living, plus irregular meals or too much smoking or drinking, can often lead to stomach discomfort. But with TUMS you get relief, fast! Just eat a couple of those mild, minty tablets . . . they go to work immediately to relieve acid indigestion, stop heartburn! Keep a roll of TUMS handy—ready to use any time, any place. No water or glass needed . . . and there's never any after-taste. TUMS cost so little too!

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active. Advt.

Closure Feeds Saanich Inlet

Fresh Run of Springs Through Juan de Fuca

A closure on salmon net fishing in Juan de Fuca Strait from Aug. 10 to 28 is probably responsible for the appearance of jack springs and six-to-nine-pound springs in Saanich Inlet, fisheries officials said yesterday.

The fresh-run fish from the strait were in mid-Saanich Inlet Thursday and up the Goldstream end at the week-end. "It showed up graphically the results of a complete net closure," the officials said.

Salmon are being caught all over Vancouver Island in small to fair numbers. Best spot now is Clayton's at Northwest Bay, a consistent producer of fish this summer.

A nine-year-old angler, Jimmy Passmore of 706 Moss-ton Street, Alberni, landed a monster of a fish to him — a 35-pound tyee at Port Boathouse.

White Sox Still Coming; Yankees, Orioles Beaten

New York Yankees have had the hitting, Baltimore Orioles have been getting pitching but when it's all over, it may be the experience of the Chicago White Sox which will make the difference.

The defending American League champions, perhaps the oldest club in the major baseball leagues, have been counted out two or three times this season only to bounce back with a resilience belying their years.

Their current trend is upwards, and last night they climbed to within two games of the lead with a sixth straight victory while the leading Yankees had a four-game win streak snapped in unlikely fashion and the youthful Orioles continued to stumble on their last Western trip.

Frank Baumann, a $100,000 bust with the Boston Red Sox who has become a bargain-basement beauty with the Pale Hose, and sparkplug Nellie Fox, finishing fast after a slow start, shared honors in Chicago's 11-inning, 6-5 win over Washington's pesky Senators.

Baumann now 11-6, pitched three and two-thirds of hitless baseball after stopping a Washington rally which produced the tying run in the eighth inning. Fox ended it in the 11th by hitting his second home run of the season.

Kansas City Athletics, who have been saving their best for the Yankees in an effort to rid themselves of the "farm team" designation, routed the leaders, 12-3.

Utility player Dick Williams led the athletics by batting in six runs while knuckleballer Bud Daley pitched steadily to gain only his second win in his last 12 decisions after a 13-4 start.

Rocky Colavito ruined the Orioles, dumped 3-1, by Detroit Tigers' Jim Bunning. Colavito's 29th home run came with a man on base for the difference. It was his first this season against Baltimore and it was also Bunning's first win over the Birds.

St. Louis' surprising Cardinals hung grimly on in the all-but-decided National League chase, shaving Pittsburgh's lead to six and a half games.

MUSIAL TIES IT

Stan Musial hit a two-run homer in the eighth inning to bring the Cards even with Milwaukee Braves at 5-5. In the 11th, Ken Boyer singled and Daryl Spencer tripled for the 6-5 win. It was credited to Ernie Broglio, a new pitching star obtained from San Francisco Giants as a throw-in in one of the many trades between the two clubs. His record is now 19-7.

Meanwhile, the Giants took the Pirates, 6-3, behind Mike McCormick's steady serving. The young southpaw struck out 13 in his 13th win in 24 decisions.

Los Angeles Dodgers protected their grip on fourth place with 2-1 and 4-1 wins over Philadelphia Phillies as southpaws Johnny Podres and Sandy Koufax both tossed up five-hitters.

Speaking Briefly

World Series Starts Oct. 5 If No Playoff Necessary

The world series will open in the home park of the National League champions, presumably the Pittsburgh Pirates, Wednesday, Oct. 5, and will shift to the American League city Saturday, Oct. 8, after two games and an open date.

Commissioner Ford Frick gave out the schedule Tuesday after a meeting with club representatives.

If it is necessary to have a tie playoff in either league, the entire schedule will be shoved back. Each league now decides a tie playoff on a best-of-three series. Frick ruled there should be an off day between the end of any necessary playoff and the opening of the series.

Frick gave Baltimore, New York and Pittsburgh permission to have series tickets printed. If later developments warrant, the other clubs will be notified.

If there is no playoff the series will go like this:

Wednesday, Oct. 5—At NL city.
Thursday, Oct. 6—At NL city.
Friday, Oct. 7—Off day.
Saturday, Oct. 8—At AL city.
Sunday, Oct. 9—At AL city.
Monday, Oct. 10—At AL city, if necessary.
Tuesday, Oct. 11—Off day.
Wednesday, Oct. 12—At NL city, if necessary.
Thursday, Oct. 13—At NL city, if necessary.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

Although the Matson Trophy is the Vancouver Island handicap championship event, it was won this year by the best player in the field.

George "Porky" Andrews playing on his own course returned a one-over-par 71 on Sunday at Royal Colwood, and this with his handicap of 3 gave him a two-stroke lead over the next best for the Trophy, and it was also by two strokes the best gross score of the day.

Runner up was last year's winner, Doug Munro of Victoria. He shot 73-3-70 for second place. Also at the 70 net mark were H. Leachman and Archie Gillies, both of Gorge, but Doug took the runner-up spot with the best score on the second nine.

Fifth was George Goodwin of Royal Colwood with net 71. Other prizewinners were Gordon Pellow who picked up the low gross prize with 73 and Bill Wakeham who came next with gross 76. Prizes may be picked up at the Colwood pro shop.

There were 69 entries.

After the big money this week is Laurie Carroll, Victoria club pro. He has left for Tacoma where he will take part in the Carling Open at Fircrest. This $35,000 event has attracted many of the leading U.S. players. It starts on Thursday and finishes Sunday.

Because he is out of town, Carroll will be unable to fulfil his buttons engagement with his partner George Bigelow on Sunday. They were due to meet Fred Painter and Watson Findlay of Gorge Vale at Uplands. The game has been postponed until Sunday, Sept. 25.

One of Victoria district's most successful button teams of recent years will be opponents this week in the Uplands Club Championship.

Frank Scroggs and Bob Morrison are to meet in the second round on Sunday with the winner progressing into the semi final.

Medalist Claude Heggie now meets Joe Briggs, while Gordon Pellow opposes Jim Carson and Bernie Rogers opposes David Humphries.

The club championship at Gorge Vale reaches the semi final stage this weekend when medalist John Merriman meets former city champion Norm Boden, and Bob Woods meets the winner of the Al MacLeod-Watson Findlay match.

Tut, tut! Next time you want to say things when you miss that short putt, remember that one of our leading clubs has adjured its members to cut out the cussin' and the swearin'.

In a folder on responsibilities of members, this club's committee says "Watch your language on the course, in the clubhouse and locker rooms. Few if any admire the use of bad or profane language and to many it is downright distasteful."

Reid Jack, the famous Scottish amateur golfer who has recently announced his retirement from serious competitive golf says the finest tip he ever received in the game was that when under pressure to try to be as relaxed as possible and to swing slowly.

CLUB NEWS—New city buttons team this year is composed of Doug Munro and Cliff Horwood, two Victoria club youngsters who have now completed their UBC studies . . . The Galt Cup, an 18-hole medal handicap event, will be played at Victoria Golf Club Saturday . . . Back at his home after an operation and four weeks in hospital is Uplands professional Walter Gravlin, feeling much better now, "but I've to take things easily for a bit the doctor says." . . . New holders of the senior buttons are Ted Williams and Tom Whittemore of Uplands who turned on the heat on their own course last week to upset the holders Harry Pike and Jim Dalziel of Colwood by three up.

Harvey Kuenn Breaks Ankle

CLEVELAND (AP) — Harvey Kuenn, American League batting champion last year, has a broken ankle and will be out for the rest of the season, Cleveland Indians said Tuesday.

Kuenn's leg had been bothering him since late last month when he was hit by a foul tip during batting practice.

Soccer Signups Saturday

Registration of all boys, 8, 9 and 10 years of age who are interested in playing in the Victoria and District Minor Soccer Association this season will take place at seven parks Saturday morning at 10.

Adult supervisors will be present at Windsor, Beacon Hill, Bullen, Hampton, Reynolds Road, Lansdowne and Central Parks. Boys are requested to register at the park nearest their homes.

Servicemen In Shoot

More than 100 expert service marksmen will take part in the 12th annual Pacific Command Rifle Association shoot at Heal's Range Thursday through Sunday.

Among groups competing will be the Canadian Army's championship team from the PPCLI in Victoria, RCN and militia units.

Mrs. Tribe Wins Medal at Uplands

Mrs. J. B. Tribe, with an 88, was medallist as the Uplands Golf Club began its ladies championship Tuesday.

Mrs. G. Chisholm and Mrs. C. Humber were runners-up, both with 90s. Finals will start Friday at 10 a.m.

Usually Does Well at Sandown

Indian Springs Back Again

Indian Springs is included in the list of more than 200 thoroughbreds who will complete the British Columbia racing season at the 14-day meeting which starts Saturday at Sidney's Sandown Park.

He won't likely be nominated to compete against the likes of Simonstown, Salado, Hemet Star, Severance, Constructive, Kaceta and others who will fill out the handicap and allowance events but the seven-year-old chestnut will almost certainly start as the public favorite.

This hasn't been a good season for the gelded son of Cherokee Boy—only one appearance in the winners' circle—but then this will be his first chance this year at Sandown. There, Indian Springs has been the most consistent of all for the past two seasons. Last year, he was the only four-time winner. In 1958, he won his last three, including the mile and five-eighths Hotelmen's Sweepstakes on closing day, and was in the money in all six starts.

However, the competition might just be a bit tougher this time. The list of thoroughbreds expected to run at Sandown includes a good number from some of the season's most successful stables.

Ken Darbyshire, Victoria owner and trainer, is expected to race such as Fast Tartan, Song Time, Caveat Emptor, Plover Call, Bright Lea, Wonder Roll, Bright Thoughts and Wonder Lou. The Circle Stable, which has veteran Jim Halket handling its string, has five with a combined total of 19 wins at Vancouver—Looks Better (6), Pursuance (5), Beau Sierra (3), Sleepy Star (3) and Perky Lad (2).

JAMES-GRABLE HORSE

Kaceta, Foxy Prince and Foxy Butch are among horses listed from Dave Diamond's successful stable. And the Darshan Stable, trained by Sonny Johnson, expects to do well with such handicap stars as Salado, a standout three-year-old, Hemet Star and the popular veteran Champioso. Hemet Star once was owned by band leader Harry James and movie star Betty Grable.

Fifteen riders are listed by track officials. Missing is Pete Clark, the 17-year-old apprentice who was such a hit last year with 34 winners, but returnees include hustling Bobby Cormack, second to Clark last year, Al Sherman, Charlie Ulrich, Jim Broomfield, Jim Sivewright, Ron Carriere, Dennis Anderson, Wesley Jones and Norm Redmond.

TWO APPRENTICES

Other riders expected are Lennie Knowles, who was here in 1958; Frank Inda, who usually works at Salem; veteran Freddie Longo; Johnny Rodger of Chilliwack and apprentices George Miller and Dean Cochlin of Vancouver. Cochlin is the son of the well-known trainer, Johnny Cochlin.

First race will start each of the 14 days at 1.45 p.m. and there will be quinella betting on the second and last races. Programs are again scheduled Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays with the meet ending on Thanksgiving Day, Monday, Oct. 10. There will be eight races on each of the four Saturdays and on Thanksgiving Day, seven on other days.

Horses stabled are:

Alder Kid, Armed Leaf, Akin, Arden Drive, Amsterman.

Baraloy, Bright Lea, Beau Sierra, Bro Chas., Bonnie Lass, Bramble Patch, Bounding By, Brookworth, Bramoney, Bob's Reward, Bob's Mistake, Bright Thoughts.

Constructive, Caveat Emptor, Crimson Sun, Cambie King, Chess Nut, Chief Remhi, Champioso, Convertible, Candle Corner, Con Brio.

Dinna Forget, Dasendal, Double Show, Dorree Dee, Doll's Song, Dark Nymph, Dark Perfume, Does Won.

Fast Tartan, Errant Prince, Eastern Scout, Flash Bet, Foxy Butch, Flo Read, Final Cross, Fleet Silk, Fay's Star, First Tenor, Flying Flute.

Grey Gift, Garry Street, Gay Inn, Giving, Great Count, Gladhill, Green Again.

Hemet Star, Hookahey, Honeywell, Hue Toney, Happy Chimes, Helmer Strom, Hookhanger, Harbor Chief.

Indian Springs, Jane Grey, Jay M Jay, Johnny O'Herron, Junio.

Ladner Beauty, Lady Gallant, Looks Better, Laviscaina, King Pal, Lady J, Lamaree, Lane's Pride, Keats Island, Ky Lawrence, Loretta's Babe, Little Selfish, Lovely Van, Low Step, Kaceta, Ky Seven.

My Lady Pleases, Miss Keith, Music Runner, Morning Call, Miss Kitty, My Guidepost, Mondays Child, Morva Glen, Myonnie, Manners Sun, Moon Abbey, Mechanic Kal, My Silver Dime, Naru, New Feature, No Alarm, New Gold, One Fine Day, Our Hour, Nash's Freedom, Once.

Nicklaus Hot Again In Amateur Tourney

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, shot a five-under-par Tuesday to prove he's still the man to beat in his bid for a second straight U.S. national amateur golf championship.

Nicklaus, a three-steak-a-day gourmet with a delicate putting touch, overpowered Ken Finke of Tucson, Ariz., 4 and 3, in the feature of 64 second-round matches that trimmed the field for two rounds of competition today.

Phil Brownlee of Toronto, the only Canadian in the field, advanced with a 3 and 2 victory over Bob Astleford of Omaha.

Nicklaus had five birdies and 10 pars on the 15 holes he played, best scoring so far in the tournament at the 6,616-yard, par 35-36—71 St. Louis Country Club course.

SCORES UPSET

The major upset of the day came when 19-year-old Harry Root of Tampa, Fla., sent Walker Cupper Ward Wettlaufer of Williamsville, N.Y., to the sidelines, 3 and 2.

Tommy Aaron, the western amateur champion from Gainesville, Ga., was even par for 13 holes in routing Hugh Burchfiel of St. Louis, 7 and 5.

One youngster, 17-year-old USGA national junior champion Bill Tindall of Seattle, toppled M. O. Johnston of La Jolla, Calif.

Joe White Through

Nanaimo Licks Wounds

TORONTO (CP) — Nanaimo's Joe White Tuesday was reported suffering from a bad case of blood poisoning in his right arm and likely will miss the entire Mann Cup lacrosse playoff with Port Credit Sailors.

Red MacMillan, coach of the Nanaimo entry in the senior lacrosse championship, said:

"Joe is possibly out for the series. He developed a bump on his right elbow, apparently resulting from an old injury. The arm swelled up and the doctor says it could be two weeks before he can use it."

The loss hits Nanaimo hard, leaving them with only Don Ashbee at centre. It wasn't the only bad news for Nanaimo, however.

Defenceman Spud Morelli, who tore ligaments in the play-off against Vancouver, re-injured his knee in the first practice Nanaimo held at nearby Port Credit, Ont.

MacMillan is uncertain what the propects are of getting Morelli back before the series ends.

Rugged Jack Bionda came out of Monday night's game—which Sailors won 10-9 to take a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven series—with a stick cut in the centre of his forehead.

"He had to have several stitches," MacMillan said, "but he's in pretty good shape."

Salmonbellies Take Lead In Minto Cup Series

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — New Westminster Salmonbellies walloped Whitby Red Wings 12-5 here Tuesday night in a hard-hitting, fight- and-penalty-studded junior lacrosse game before 1,000 fans. New Westminster now holds a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven Canadian final for the Minto Cup.

The fourth game of the series will be played here Thursday and the fifth Friday.

New Westminster was paced by burly defenceman Wayne Shuttleworth and lanky centre Mike Gates. Shuttleworth scored three goals and added an assist, with Gates scoring twice and setting up three others. Charlie Saunders with three, two in the dying minutes of the game, Doug Wallsmith with two and Kelvin Kyle and Gordie Stidolph with one each rounded out the Salmonbellies' scoring.

Terry Davis, who scored three of the first four goals and set up the other, led Whitby scorers. Bob Carnegie and Glen Lotton added the others.

During the months of April, May, June and July the provincial fish and game branch released 13 tons, or 3,575,000 trout of all kinds, into B.C. lakes—more than twice as many trout as produced in the whole hatchery system in 1957, Stewart Smith, fisheries biologist in charge of hatchery production, reports.

Vancouver Island received its share of the new trout stocks, especially in alpine lakes where the plan is to introduce some big lunkers for those who don't mind a little trouble to get big fish.

Smith said the reason for increased trout production was better hatchery practice bringing increased efficiency through the use of facilities available.

Hatchery officials have been experimenting with breeding stock and with a scientifically balanced dry feed for the trout—pellets.

In 1957, it took seven pounds of fish food to produce one pound of fish. Now it takes only one and one-half to two pounds of food to produce one pound of fish. In 1957 it cost 80 cents to 85 cents for food per pound of fish produced. Now it costs only 30 cents per pound of fish produced.

Total cost of producing fish at the Summerland hatchery is $1.18 a pound of fish. In 1957 it was $4.96 a pound.

This is one reason why fishermen may expect an intensified program of fish stocking in the future and as fishing pressure increases in any lake, so will the re-stocking program.

Down in New Zealand they put back anything under a 14-inch trout, writes Cowichan River steelheader Col. A. W. K. Gordon in a letter to Lou Williams of Victoria.

Col. Gordon is on a year's sojourn in New Zealand and is currently at Taylor's Fishing Lodge at Turangi on the North Island. He has been having lots of fun fishing the Tongariro River, south of Lake Taupo, where, he says, rainbow trout average 6½ pounds and only fly fishing is allowed.

Olympic Memories Linger

By OSCAR FRALEY

ROME (UPI) — The Olympic athletes and the tourists who came here for the games have virtually disappeared but for Rome the memories linger on very pleasantly.

It was a spectacle to match any of them as you look back across the years. Most of the time it was blazing hot and the traffic was something to make daredevil drivers stay at home knitting.

But, all in all, it was a good one.

Each of them contributes something to the memory book. Like Paavo Nurmi sprinting around the track with the Olympic torch at Helsinki; the bands playing "Waltzing Matilda" at Melbourne; and the eerie "miracle of the snows" at Squaw Valley when the storm stopped for the opening ceremony and started again immediately afterwards.

Such as:

The glittering array of stadiums and competitive venues. The organizing committee had a large slice of the state-operated football pools with which to work and not even the ancient Greeks dreamed of such lavish use of marble and statues. Just having the fig leaf concession could have made a man wealthy.

The blazing hot mornings, when the burnished Roman sun seemed to burn right through you. You looked at the cool blue waters of the swimming pools and figured that even the guy who finished last was unaccountably lucky just to be in the swim.

The pleasant, sunny disposition of the Italian people. To a guy from the lower east side of New York it was just like being at home on Sunday morning when all the suburbanites quit cluttering up the joint and the butcher and his family take the sun at Thirty-third and Third.

The way in which Wilma Rudolph brushed off all her opposition in the 100 and 200-metre dash. She was in a class by herself as she simply ran them into the ground. And when she anchored the winning relay team, here, you knew, she was the single outstanding athlete of this Olympiad.

The way, too, in which Otis Davis barreled down the stretch to win the 400 metres. This was a feat to match the record-smashing day when Roger Bannister became the first man to break the four-minute mile. Because when that 44.9 seconds went up on the board, the slender westerner had become the first man ever to break 45 seconds.

The dog-eat-dog battle between Rafer Johnson and C. K. Yang for the Decathlon title. And Johnson's tired capsule comment over his victory: "I didn't ever think I was going to lose, but some times I didn't know how I was going to win."

The so impressive closing ceremony when thousands of solemn spectators lighted twisted programs and newspapers and, so magnetic was the sight, the lights were turned out while the impromptu tapers glittered in the blue velvet night.

The fireworks display which ended it all, a sight which would have sent the Caesars into a tizzy. And some of the display setting fire to one of the hillsides while spectators fled in a manner reminiscent of refugees on the Burma Road.

It was as if, in the end, they had to chase 'em home.

Canada's Best Falter; Sue Butt Still 'Alive'

TORONTO (CP) — A little South American and a powerful American provided most of the thrills at the Canadian tennis championships Tuesday.

Miguel Olvera, 21-year-old from Ecuador who stalks the tennis court like a cat, outmanoeuvred big, hard-stroking Chris Crawford of Menlo College, Calif., 6-0, 4-6, 6-2.

In other matches Canadians continued to fall by the wayside under the onslaught of the visiting foreign contingent.

All men's singles seeds advenced to the third round.

Canada's leading player, Bob Bedard of Lennoxville, Que., seeded fourth here, easily got by Ed Brandreth of Hamilton, 6-1, 6-1.

Other Canadians fared poorly. Peter Yates and Roger Ambrose, both of Toronto, Lawrence Barclay, British Columbia title-holder from Vancouver, Montrealer Mike Carpenter and George Czuczka of Toronto, all dropped their second-round matches to foreign entries.

Lew Gerrard, New Zealand, defeated Barclay 7-5, 6-2.

It was the same story in women's singles with visiting seeded players taking their toll of Canadian talent. However, Sue Butt, Victoria, gained the third round by defeating Benita Sern, Toronto, 6-2, 6-4.

In the first round of the mixed doubles, Penny Sparling, Toronto and Lawrence Barclay, Vancouver, defeated Shirley and Peter Yates, Toronto, 6-2, 6-4. Doris Ell, Toronto, and Ladislav Legenstein, Austria, defeated Susan Butt, Victoria, and Eduardo Zuleta, Ecuador, 6-2, 8-6.

Garden Notes

Beauty in a Corner

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

The idea of naturalizing bulbs in grass seems to summon up a picture of vast, wooded estates and, because of this, the town gardener is likely to put aside this attractive proposition, albeit somewhat reluctantly. Actually, there is hardly a backyard, however small, that doesn't offer a suitable site for the naturalizing of bulbs.

It could be, perhaps, a rough bank across the bottom of the garden—a spot no good for lawns or flower beds and one which would involve too much work for the construction of a rock garden. A few dollars invested in the cheaper grades of daffodil bulbs would make the problem spot a thing of beauty spring after spring, and with practically no maintenance. Or that little corner near the evergreens where nothing else will grow can be brightened with muscari, scillas, crocus or snowdrops.

It is pretty hard to do anything with the ground around a big tree, especially when the huge roots radiate out from the trunk just on or just under the surface. But the space between these surface roots will provide a fine home for many of the smaller bulbs, and the red-cupped daffodils look especially gay against dull, dark green evergreen foliage.

The first and most important factor to be considered when choosing a site is whether the grass may be allowed to remain unmown until midsummer. It is no good planting bulbs in a spot which must be tidied up in spring, for the bulb foliage must remain uncut until it dies down naturally or at least until the end of June.

This is one reason why naturalized bulbs do so well in grassed-over orchards, where the grass isn't cut until July.

Soil is a factor, although bulbs are not too fussy. In very poor, gravelly ground or in extremely dry soil, bulbs will continue for several years but go downhill a bit each season and eventually die out. With reasonably decent loam soil and light feeding once a year, most bulbs will bloom indefinitely, and will spread and multiply. About the only spot which must be ruled out completely is poorly-drained puddly or swampy ground, for no bulb can abide stagnant moisture during its resting period.

When planting in sod, the easy way to put in the little bulbs such as crocus, snowdrop and chionodoxa is simply to cut a slit in the turf with your pocket knife, push in the bulb and stamp it down. With daffodils and any of the larger bulbs, it is best to lift the sod, enrich the soil below with peat moss and some mild and long-lasting fertilizer such as bone meal or Vigoro Bulb Food, then plant and return the sod.

If naturalized bulbs are to look naturalized, it is most important to avoid any set pattern in planting them. The classic method is to toss the bulbs over your shoulder and plant 'em where they fall. Better not mix the varieties, for in nature each kind would be growing in a colony of its own, close together in the middle of the group and farther apart toward the fringes of the colony.

On and On Into the Night — Object: Fool Teacher

Magicians Hold 'Jam Session'

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—A group of students took turns in a Syracuse university class recently trying to fool the teacher. The more dazzling the deception, the higher the mark.

The group comprised professional magicians whose sleight of hand was under study. They all had a ball.

Magicians like to keep their audiences in the dark about their secrets but they also like to improve their acts.

The sessions at Syracuse turned into around-the-clock meetings when the magicians found willing audiences in the college students and a high school group visiting the campus. The displays of tricks went on and on into the night.

★ ★ ★

"The night sessions were like a musicians' jam session when the regular shows are over. Once a magician warms up, it's hard to stop him," said New York public relations man Felix Greenfield.

In addition to the lectures and demonstrations by professional magicians, Syracuse drama professor Gerald Reidenbaugh gave some pointers in staging and makeup.

Seventeen magicians, all amateurs, attended the seminar. The youngest was eight-year-old Lee Dorland of Tarrytown, N.Y., who does card tricks like an old pro.

★ ★ ★

Perry Jones, of Endicott, N.Y., used the seminar to get back into magic after two years. He only recently regained his sight, with the help of a collection of 500 decks of playing cards.

Among the magicians was a dentist and a wood pulp engineer. Most of them were businessmen who supplement their incomes by doing tricks at charity shows.

Professional magician Irving Weiner of Boston offered one answer to revive the public's answer in magic —"close up work" with smaller audiences.

★ ★ ★

"The days of the big shows, vanishing elephants and such, are gone," he said.

"You just don't have theatres any more for those shows. The audience is also wandering off to other forms of entertainment," Weiner said.

He said card stunts, dice and cigarette tricks and vanishing and reappearing balls, plus a knowledge of psychology, is the answer.

"A magician, just like any successful person, is always a few jumps ahead of the other person," he said. "The magician's big worry is picking the right trick for the audience."

The magicians, members of the International Brotherhood of Magicians, will take Weiner's advice. Another seminar is planned next year for a review of the latest in magic.

Hollywood Today — By Sheilah Graham

Yul May Play Manhunter

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Yul Brynner will be offered the role of Tuvia Friedman, the man who hunted and captured Adolph Eichmann, the Nazi who boasted of killing 6,000,000 Jews. Lester Cowan has bought the book written by Friedman, to be published by Doubleday in November.

The title, producer Cowan told me, will be either "The Hunter" or "The Fourth Commandment." "I will film it in Germany and Israel," he added. But not in Argentina, where Eichmann was captured. Cowan is going to Israel to confer with the government on his project. It should be interesting. Eichmann's trial in Israel, by the way, is set for May, 1961.

★ ★ ★

Dell publisher George Delacorte is hoping to do an Alfred Lunt cookbook. That should be fascinating . . . Mrs. Delacorte, widow of the late, colorful Gabriel Pascal, is putting the finishing touches to her book on Gabby. They were separated, divorcing, but reconciled at his deathbed.

★ ★ ★

Of all things—Gary Cooper plays a murderer in his upcoming picture in England, "The Naked Edge." Isn't this the first time that Gary has been a movie villain? Gary is making the picture for his own Baroda company and Marlon Brando's Pennybaker company, but confesses he has not yet met Marlon. This can happen only in Hollywood where life is on the ivory-tower side.

★ ★ ★

John Wayne is happy at getting Princess Margaret Rose and Antony Armstrong-Jones to attend the London Oct. 27 premiere of his giant-size picture, "The Alamo." This biggie cost $10,000,000—supplied by Texas millionaires.

★ ★ ★

Columnist Joe Hyams hired shrewd lawyer Arthur Crowley for his half-million-dollar suit against Cary Grant. I have a hunch this one will be settled out of court.

★ ★ ★

Seventeen-year-old Tuesday Weld will receive $25,000 for playing "Lolita" to the Humbert Humbert of James Mason. Tuesday has been ordered by a California court to put 15 per cent into savings bonds.

★ ★ ★

Inga Stevens tells me she has the most frustrating role of the year in a new segment of "Checkmate." She plays a young bride-to-be whose intended husband is kidnapped on their wedding eve.

America-Asia — Before Ice Age

New Evidence Found of Land Bridge

VANCOUVER (CP) — A University of British Columbia scientist says he has found fresh evidence of a land bridge connecting Asia and North America before the Ice Age.

The theory has long been held that people and animals migrated from Asia to North America by this route.

Dr. C. C. Lindsey of UBC, who spent the summer in the north, says his belief in the land bridge has been strengthened by his discovery of fresh water fish on a barren island in the Bering Sea. The island is believed to be a remnant of the land bridge between the continents.

Dr. Lindsey, associate professor of zoology and curator of fishes at UBC, and J. D. McPhail, zoologist, went to the Bering Sea island to test the landbridge theory.

On barren St. Lawrence Island they found three kinds of fish which, Dr. Lindsey says, could not have got there except through fresh-water channels of a land bridge.

The three they found that would die in salt water are a five-inch Alaska black fish, a 15-inch Arctic grayling and a three-inch slimy sculpin.

★ ★ ★

On this expedition and a side trip in the Peel River in the Yukon the scientists collected and preserved 1,300 pounds of freshwater and marine specimens when they shipped to the UBC Institute of Fisheries for study.

On the Peel River they captured a supposed flying fish that proved to be a dwarfed form of Arctic grayling, a little fish with big fins. They also captured two fish never before reported, a flat head chub and spoon head sculpin.

Canoeists Survive 2,300-Mile Battle

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Jim and Alan McGrew are home, a 75-day, 2,300-mile canoe trip through the northern wilds of Canada behind them.

Jim, 19, an Oregon State College junior, came up with the idea and talked his brother, 17, into it. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Finley McGrew, drove them to Fort St. John.

The perilous trip nearly cost them their lives when wind-whipped waves swamped the 18-foot boat in the Peace River.

They paddled and portaged a route down the Peace, over Great Slave Lake, down the Hay River and finally down the McKenzie River to the Arctic Ocean. They flew home from there.

"We began to ship water and Jim headed her for shore," Alan told of the near-upset.

"Only there wasn't any shore, just a sheer mud bank about 30 feet high. We were able to hit a shelf just as we went under.

"It took us hours to find a way up the bank. Then it rained for three days solid while we huddled in our pup tent trying to dry out. And that water was cold."

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Saanich to Try New Approach On Sewer Issue

Saanich council is set to try a new approach to initiating a sewer installation in one of the municipality's problem areas—it will sit as the local board of health and may order that the project be undertaken to end a health hazard.

Council's public works committee last night recommended the new approach for the 143-home McBriar-Willow area where some 74 per cent of property owners are said to favor the project.

A public hearing would be called and council would order the sewerage system proceeded with at an estimated annual cost to each homeowner of $83 plus an initial average connection fee of $74.

MONTHS' DELAY

By resorting to the board of health approach provided for in the Municipal Act the council could get the project underway in time to do most of it under the provisions of the federal-provincial winter work subsidy. Submission of the scheme to a vote of property-owners would delay it several months.

Public works committee last night also acceded to a request from residents of the Tillicum-Whiteside area for further study of costs involved in a sewer installation which was defeated at the polls last year.

RENEWED ENTHUSIASM

Reeve George Chatterton told delegates from the area last night that extensive savings would have to be found, and renewed enthusiasm shown by property owners, before the municipality would consider putting the plan to a second vote.

The committee also moved to advise the municipality's medical health officer that a sewer project for the Glanford area would be considered as soon as possible.

Central Saanich

Pub Bid Reaction Mixed

A request to Central Saanich council for a beer parlor licence last night met with mixed reaction.

Coun. W. F. Grafton jokingly remarked he didn't think having licensed premises on that corner (less than a block away from the municipal hall) would be a good idea. "It is too close to operations — we wouldn't get any work done."

He added more seriously this request would require a plebiscite. Coun. R. G. Lee pointed out there had been no requests from ratepayers for a beer parlor in the area and asked a paragraph be added to the letter saying council was not prepared to put such a plebiscite to the people.

Big Plans Made For Show Sunday At Colwood Park

An exciting program of events has been planned by the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association for the big show Sunday at Colwood Park exhibition ground (site of the old Colwood race track.)

Curtain goes up at 2 p.m. at the big open house on a show bill that includes sun dances by Indians from the Greater Victoria area, special events by the Victoria Motorcycle Club, children's sports with prizes donated by the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, an exhibition of square dancing, a horse gymkhana, cycle races and displays by the Victoria Cycling Club, a tug-of-war, and a continuous pillow fight sponsored by Colwod Chamber of Commerce.

Among the performers will be the Eagles Band, Thunderbird All-Girls Drum Corps and the Victoria Girls Drill Team.

The event is sponsored by the B.C. Agricultural Association which holds a 50-year lease on the property and is seeking support for a Class A fair of the type formerly staged at the old Willows fairgrounds.

"We want the public to see the potential of this 140-acre natural ampitheatre," Lan McCaul, BCAA secretary, said last night.

Pop and ice cream will be on sale on the grounds but people are asked to bring their own basket lunches if they plan to make a day of it.

Correspondence concerning the proposal for the new fair may be addressed to Mr. McCaul, PO Box 561, Victoria.

Ottawa Commission

Daily Newspaper Opinion-Shaper

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal government commission lined up Tuesday on the side of the daily newspaper as the biggest aid to formulation of public opinion, saying radio and television are less effective because of the fleeting nature of broadcasting.

This acolade for the press came from the restrictive trade practices commission. It was an unusually warm endorsation from a government body that devotes its time to the technicalities of anti-combines investigation.

The commission, which dealt with the role of mass communications media in its report on the status of The Sun and The Province in Vancouver, said that by the press it referred particularly to the daily newspaper.

Sections of the public were reached by magazines of opinion and by the spoken word, but the public generally was reached by the mass media: the press, radio and television.

The commission added:

"Among these channels of communication the press remains the prime medium of communication for the purpose of assisting in the formulation of public opinion.

"For this purpose radio and television are less effective because of the impermanence of their messages."

Subdivision Move Made

Central Saanich council last night approved a request by the municipality's building inspector that he pass all subdivision plans before adoption.

Coun. R. G. Lee said routine matters should be put in the hands of municipal personnel, leaving council free for more important business.

From now on only special cases requiring legislation will appear before council.

Mayor Guns For Taxes

A share of the federal income tax—earmarked for school costs—will be a primary target for Mayor Percy Scurrah when he attends the annual Union of B.C. Municipalities convention this month in New Westminster.

This objective is contained in a resolution approved for submission to the UBCM by the union's Vancouver Island section, and has long been in the mayor's mind.

ISLAND LEADERS

Mayor Scurrah spoke of it first about a year ago, and again to Island municipal leaders this summer. He has been encouraged by indicated support from Premier W. A. C. Bennett and by a modified stand on educational financing taken by the Quebec government.

Mayor Scurrah will attend a meeting of the UBCM executive prior to the convention, which opens Sept. 21.

"I intend," he said yesterday, "to do my utmost to impress on the rest of the executive the importance of a fair solution to the school costs problem . . . This is the only fair and logical method of solving this problem that I can see."

NATIONAL PROBLEM

School costs, he said, were no longer a local or provincial problem but had reached national importance. Therefore it was logical to ask on its behalf for a share of the national income.

In past years the civic tax base on land and improvements was sufficient to provide necessary educational facilities. Today, however, that base was simply not enough.

SAME AREAS

"After all, the bulk of the federal income tax revenues come from the very same urban areas that are bearing an increasingly intolerable burden of school costs.

"It's only fair that some of this money be diverted from less important federal expenditures to this very import field of education."

PIONEER AREA

The first British settlement in New Zealand was in 1814, more than 40 years after it was visited by Captain Cook.

Chamber Plan

'Lower Town' May Revert To 1800s

Future visitors here will turn off Government Street and find themselves in the mid-1800s, if the tourist trade group of the Chamber of Commerce has its way.

The group hopes to sell property owners in "Lower Town" on the idea of preserving the traditional Victorian era character of their buildings and to bring in tourist dollars there through operation of shops making hand-woven fabrics, pottery and silverware.

The area is bounded on the north by Johnson, on the east by Government, on the south by Broughton and the west by Wharf. Buildings would be painted to restore their original beauty and cluster lights would illuminate the whole area.

Part of the true Canadiana of this area will be preserved and that portion of town will be economically revitalized with a linkup to the present tourist-conscious area of Government Street, said a spokesman for the group.

Dodsworth Wins Vote

Walter Dodsworth, assistant manager of the Butchart Gardens, last night was elected chairman of the tourist trade group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

Bernard Cox of the B.C. Electric was named first vice-chairman and Victor Downard of the Coach Lines depot was named second vice-chairman.

An engraved silver tray was presented to outgoing chairman Sam Lane, proprietor of the Olde England Inn.

Woman Falls From Car At Roundabout

Mrs. Ida Murray, 52, of Millstream Road, Langford, was treated for facial abrasions at St. Joseph's Hospital after she fell out of a car at the Douglas Street Roundabout at 9.20 p.m. yesterday. A door on the passenger side flew open while her husband, Alexander Murray, was driving around the roundabout, said police.

Colder Winters Lie Ahead—But Worry Not, Victoria

A U.S. geologist's prediction that B.C. is heading for colder winters is probably quite sound, says weatherman William Mackie, but Victorians can safely curb any sudden inclination to invest in mukluks and parkas.

Mr. Mackie pointed out yesterday that long-term weather trends are slow to materialize and extremely gradual in effect.

He said there seemed to be sound reasoning behind the theory of Dr. Maynard Millar, Montana State University geology professor, that an 80 to 90-year warming trend along the Pacific from Washington to Alaska has reached its peak and that a return to "old-fashioned winters" may begin within five years.

The geologist said the prediction is based upon long-term glacier studies, increased precipitation, more storms and the general rise in temperature which can be measured over protracted periods.

Dr. Millar, 39, made his predictions in Seattle after another summer studying the chain of glaciers between Washington and Alaska.

Mr. Mackie said there is no doubt the world is subjected to warming and cooling periods, but added that if the Pacific northwest has reached its speak on a warmer trend, the peak itself could last several years.

He said there is evidence that there has been a net increase in temperatures in the area stemming back to the turn of the century, or even earlier.

But he said the task of plotting such long-term trends is made difficult because of the fact that "in the New World our records really only go back about 100 years." And even those are suspect because civilization has changed the topographical environment around the points where readings are obtained.

He said temperature readings in Victoria, for instance, probably cannot be accurately compared over the years because of removal of more and more vegetation and the effect this would have through heat absorbed by bare ground.

If a downward temperature trend does develop, he said, it probably would never be detected by the average person because it would be so gradual from year-to-year and might have a net effect annually of only a fraction of a degree.

Hope for City Shipbuilders Seen in Coast Guard Plan

★ ★ ★

Ottawa Will Build Six Patrol Cutters

Mayor Percy Scurrah last night saw hope for relief of mounting unemployment in Victoria's hard-pressed shipyards this winter if the federal government would take immediate action on plans announced yesterday for a Canadian coast guard program.

Transport Minister George Hees said in Nova Scotia that six watchdog patrol cutters, including two for service on the west coast, and a general weather radar program will form the basis of the new service.

"I hope the government has got this thing past the stage of just talking about it," said Mayor Scurrah.

The mayor said that if the government already had plans drawn up for even one ship these could be duplicated and the shipbuilding program started at once to provide jobs for contract-starved west coast yards.

'An Awful Row'

"The ships (that will operate on the west coast) had darned well better be built on this coast, otherwise there's going to be an awful row," said Mayor Scurrah.

Harold Husband, president of Victoria Machinery Depot, said his yard was "desperately in need of work" and eager to bid for the contract to build one or both of the cutters in order to keep together the skilled VMD team of shipbuilders and technicians.

Mr. Hees said in his speech at the official opening of the Nova Scotia Fisheries Exhibition and Fishermen's Reunion held at Lunenburg that the department of transport has been authorized to begin construction of six patrol cutters "next year."

The minister in his speech gave no details of the proposed ships beyond saying they would be designed to suit local circumstances and, if they proved successful, more of the vessels would be recommended to the government.

(In an interview later, Mr. Hees said the cutters are expected to cost between $350,000 and $400,000 each.)

Mr. Hees said steps will be studied to enable the government ships to improve their effectiveness in marine rescue. But even with a fleet of government department ships totalling more than 150, there must be full co-operation by private owners.

Marine Disasters

"What is needed is leadership to bring the great fleet of publicly and privately-owned vessels operating in Canadian waters into a state of coherence and readiness to meet marine disasters.

"This leadership the government proposes to give through the agency of the Canadian Marine Service, the newly-adopted name for ships of the department of transport. Our marine co-ordinators will be key men in this continuing development."

H. B. Elworthy, president of Island Tug and Barge, one of the originators of the co-operative marine rescue service carried on for several years past by ferries, tugboats and other craft plying B.C. waters, said: "I'll take my hat off to the government if they can better what we already have here in B.C."

Constantly on Alert

He said the marine rescue setup on the west coast, co-ordinated by Capt. Cyril Andrews of Vancouver, now has every vessel constantly on alert and ready to lend assistance, and should "set a pattern to be followed by the rest of Canada."

Weather radar would be welcomed by operators of every type of craft on the west coast, said Mr. Elworthy.

Mr. Hees said that for some months the DOT's meteorological branch has been carrying on scientific research into the use of radar in weather analysis and forecasting.

"As a result of this," the minister said, "I now plan to recommend to the government the establishment of a general weather radar program."

First major installation would be at Halifax, and if it lives up to expectations the weather radar program will be extended across Canada, the minister said. The proposal implies a greater emphasis on the prevention of marine accidents.

Norwegian Ship Berths Here

The Norwegian motorship Gudrun Bakke berthed at Ogden Point late yesterday on her maiden voyage from western Australia and the Orient. Knutsen Lines operates the ship, which has accommodation for 12 passengers." Her master is Capt. Henrik Iversen. Cargo to be off-loaded here is mainly steel plate.

Crane Flips Over

Crane operator Vernon Edgelow, 55, of 2812 Rockwell, was in "satisfactory" condition at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday after an accident at 11.30 a.m. at Yarrows Ltd.

The crane, company spokesmen said, was lifting two tons of steel when it overturned. Edgelow was rushed by Esquimalt police to hospital for X-ray and treatment of a possible broken shoulder.

The company has started an investigation to learn why a 10-ton crane should overturn on a two-ton lift.

Weird Creature from South

Man-seals was the term used by Eskimos like the grinning boy shown above with AB Ron Mackenzie, 804 Michigan, to describe RCN Pacific Command divers operating in western Arctic. For many it was the first time they had seen a skindiver.—(RCN photo.)

Arctic Divers Return

Man-Seals' Antics Convulse Eskimos

By IAN STREET

The sight of men swimming around among ice floes caused a good deal of hilarity among native inhabitants of the western Arctic.

Eskimos, a good-natured people who laugh a lot, coined a new word to describe members of the RCN Pacific Command diving team which spent most of the summer on operations in the far north—they called the divers "man-seals."

CRAZY METHODS

More helpless laughter on the part of the Eskimos attended what they presumed to be "crazy" methods used by the divers to catch whitefish.

The whitefish, of course, were killed by explosive charges set off by the naval diving team to clear northern beaches of obstruction so that supply ships could land stores and equipment for DEW-line bases.

"The Eskimos thought we were crazy, using explosions to kill whitefish," said group leader Lt.-Cmdr. Frank Bayfield-Davis in an interview here yesterday.

The Eskimos proved they could do better by netting Arctic char, a gourmet item that sells in big cities for $4 a pound. After tasting the delicacy the divers hoped to gather a char harvest of their own among the fish killed by the explosive charges.

CURIOUS SEALS

But the explosions seemed only to attract curious seals which watched from about 100 yards offshore as they worked.

The naval team arrived at Tuktoyaktuk on the Mackenzie delta July 20 and found the water temperature was 50 degrees. A couple of days later, however, they were among ice floes with the mercury nudging 32 degrees.

FOG AND RAIN

They were about 2½ weeks in ice and battled fog and rain for much of their stay in the far north. When the team left for home last Thursday it was 32 degrees and snowing hard.

An emergency repair job on the Victoria icebreaker CGS Camsell provided a break in their routine.

Naval divers spent two days removing three smashed blades from the port propeller of the Camsell, damaged by pack ice off Point Barrow. With the help of the Camsell's crewmen they replaced the blades with spares weighing 1½ tons each.

GIANT WRENCH

Gigantic proportion of the co-operative task, carried out with a minimum of equipment, is shown by the fact that a giant wrench used for tightening bolts holding the blades was manipulated by cable attached to a five-ton crane.

Election Notebook

Youth, Grin, Posy Cinch in Oak Bay

By PETER BRUTON

Oak Bay Social Crediters figure they have found the secret of Liberal Alan Macfarlane's success and will begin working as from today to "re-organize for the next campaign."

"We have found the weak spots," chortled Socred campaign manager A. C. McFadyen, not at all dismayed that this startling discovery won't change the result in the riding.

Speaking on behalf of Socred candidate Reeve George Murdoch, he said:

"We salute the winner. Again it has been demonstrated that youth, legal background and fine family background pays off, plus an irresistible smile for everyone and a pink carnation at the polls on election day."

Mr. McFadyen said Mr. Murdoch's total of 3,694 votes set a new record for Socred candidates in the riding since 1953 and even surpassed that of Einar Gunderson.

★ ★ ★

LONG COUNT: The losing candidates were not the only people wearing glum expressions in the Vancouver Point Grey riding yesterday.

Returning officers were faced with the task of recounting all of the 357 polls even though Social Credit candidates swept to victory in the three-seat riding. More than 22,000 votes were cast for Attorney-General Robert Bonner alone.

The mixup occurred when 37 of the polling officers turned in their ballot boxes without phoning in the tally. And the returning office staff say it would be too complicated a job to try to separate the 37 boxes.

★ ★ ★

LIFE ON OCEAN WAVE: New CCF members for Delta are looking for someone to come forward with a fishboat.

During the campaign James Rhodes promised to make a trip on a seiner if elected to learn first hand of conditions in the fishing industry.

"And I'll go along as cook," said Mrs. Camille Mather, wife of Vancouver Sun funnyman Barry Mather.

Monday they were both elected and both said they would honor their pledge.

★ ★ ★

MISSING LINK: How DID Esperanza vote?

This was the intriguing question which gripped the Alberni riding all day yesterday — and as yet it still remains unanswered.

Communications broke down between the remote polling station and the returning officer's headquarters in Port Alberni.

When radio-telephone communications broke down it was decided to get B.C. Airlines to make contact with the little settlement on the West Coast.

By the way, no matter how the 18 votes in Esperanza go it can have no difference on the result. CCF candidate John Squire retained the seat.

★ ★ ★

CLEAN SWEEP: Port Alberni newspaper publisher Fred Duncan, the Social Credit candidate, had hoped that "as goes Queen's Cove so goes the riding."

He picked up both ballots cast at the Vancouver Island "community."

★ ★ ★

SIGN LANGUAGE: Ever since the election started city second-hand dealer W. A. Scott has had electioneering signs in his store window. Each time a new one went in the city came along and collected $1 tax.

Yesterday Bill threw all the signs out and put in one new one, which read: "Wacky Wacked Us. Congratulations to Wacky From Bill Scott."

Bill hopes the city won't come around to collect another $1.

DON'T KNOCK IT: Faith of Oak Bay Conservative James A. A. George in door-to-door campaigning has not been shaken, despite his poor showing in the polls Monday.

Mr. George has spent the past 18 months making personal calls on virtually every voter in the riding. His detailed analysis cards showed he had 2,100 supporters but he only polled 1,200 votes.

"Yes, I'm still in favor of this personal-style campaign," he said yesterday.

"For one thing, I made a lot of friends," he added, "Not as many as I thought, maybe, but . . . in view of the trend I think I would have got a lot less without doing what I did."

★ ★ ★

DISAPPEARING ACT: No wonder the Progressive Conservatives expected to do better than they actually did.

On the mainland in one riding there were fewer Tory votes than there were registered members of the Progressive Conservative constituency association in the district.

Evening Session For Polio Shots Backs Up Appeal

An appeal to adults to bring their polio shots up-to-date was made yesterday by officials of the Victoria-Esquimalt health department.

As an encouragement an evening vaccine clinic has been arranged for adults on Monday, the beginning of Immunization Week.

The clinic will be held in the health and welfare centre at 1947 Cook Street from 5 to 7 p.m. Monday.

"Children receive their protection at well baby clinics and later have booster shots in school," a health department official said. "Parents often feel that they are excused immunization by virtue of age."

But, it was explained, diseases like polio still hit adults.

"Considering the seriousness and the frequently crippling effects of this disease (polio), it is apparent to every intelligent member of our population how fortunate we are in now having an effective, safe and inexpensive means of prevention," the official said.

"Two injections of anti-polio vaccine . . . given one month apart with a third injection seven months later give excellent protection."

The health department official also said that regular immunization clinics are held at the Cook Street health centre each Wednesday.

Share Taxes Oak Bay Urges B.C.

Oak Bay council, seeking increased provincial financial aid to municipalities, will introduce a resolution before the Union of B.C. Municipalities calling for sharing of sales tax, motor vehicle licence fees and gasoline tax revenues.

The resolution, introduced last night by Coun. Fred Hawes and approved by council, requests that the provincial government return to the method of sharing such revenues on a percentage basis with municipal governments.

Councillors observed that while such a system may not be adequate for the needs of municipalities, it would be a step in the right direction.

Three young Victorians, all graduates of the Royal Jubilee School of Nursing, Class of 1959, are off to Vancouver today to further their nursing studies. They will take a year's course in clinical training and supervision at the Faculty of Nursing, University of British Columbia. They are pictured, from left to right, Miss Donna Burridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. L. Burridge, Queenswood, Miss Win Lochhead, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Lochhead, Westdowne, and Miss Barbara Courtney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace G. Courtney, Linden. Since their graduation the three have been members of the Jubilee Hospital nursing staff.—(Ryan Bros. studio.)

Director Says

Nursing Field Needs More Careful Study

Miss Helen Mussallem, director of the Pilot Project undertaken by the Canadian Nurses' Association to study the advisability of an accreditation program for nursing schools, was in Victoria last evening.

Miss Mussallem addressed a meeting of the Registered Nurses Association, Victoria Branch, in the Nurses Home at St. Joseph's Hospital.

The study of hospital schools of nursing across the country showed more profound issues at stake than the feasibility of the accreditation plan, Miss Mussallem stated.

Recommendations to the CNA asked that a re-examination and study of the whole field of nursing be undertaken.

Miss Mussallem said it was felt that a look at the total health needs of the country would help determine the future program for the nursing profession.

Another recommendation resulting from the study was that CNA institute a school improvement program. This would include teams from national office helping out at the request of the schools in each province.

It was also suggested a program be established to evaluate the quality of the nursing service.

No criteria exists to evaluate educational programs in nursing or nursing service and Miss Mussallem said standards should be set.

The experiment carried out at the Metropolitan School in Windsor was a success, Miss Mussellem pointed out. The school was independent of any hospital and training time was cut to two years.

Whether such independent schools will be the answer to the service remains to be seen, Miss Mussallem said.

Nursing is only profession that is not included in the educational framework of the country, she concluded.

Miss Mussallem, a graduate of the Vancouver General Hospital was director of education at that hospital when she was appointed to head the study two years ago.

She studied at McGill for her BA and received her MA from Columbia University. After the project was completed in February she went back to Columbia and this year will be her last in studying for her doctorate in education.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl 21 who has a small problem too delicate to discuss with a friend.

The young man I've been dating works in this office. He's 24, attractive, fun to be with and he seems very fond of me.

The first date we had was five weeks ago. We went to a movie. He suggested I meet him inside because he "might be a little late and didn't want me standing on the sidewalk alone."

On the second date we went to the theatre. He asked me to pick up the tickets and he'd reimburse me. I got the tickets, but he never paid me for them.

Almost every date we have costs me money. He is forever borrowing a dollar for parking, or asking me to pick up a couple of packages of cigarets for him.

He makes a good salary, lives at home, and wears $90 suits. Shall I tell him his behavior in money matters lowers my opinion of him?

He has many wonderful qualities and when I'm with him the world seems rosy and I can hear the birds sing. — FRIEDA

★ ★ ★

Dear Frieda: If you listen to those birds carefully, they are probably saying, "Cheap, cheap."

You got off to a poor start when on the first date you agreed to meet him on the free side of the box-office.

The next time he puts the bite on you, tell him no thanks.

It's all right for an engaged girl to help out now and then in a pinch, but this character is faking you out.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: We've been married 10 years and have a cute little girl five years old. My husband would like another child and has talked to me about it many times. The trouble is our little Janice is against it.

When I ask her if she'd like to have a baby brother or sister she stamps her foot and says "No, no!"

I'm afraid if we do have another child Janice will be a terrible problem, and I might add she's not very easy to handle as it is.

Do you think I'd better leave well enough alone. I need your advice — TROUBLED MOTHER.

★ ★ ★

Dear Troubled: It sounds as if Janice has commandeered the driver's seat in your family. Another child is just what is needed to give the little dictator the proper perspective.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann: Maybe I'm old-fashioned. Maybe I'm a creature from outer space. And maybe I'm just a nut. But I just can't stand to see my wife smoke.

Some women don't look too bad when they smoke but my wife looks like a common trollop. She talks with a cigarette dangling out of her mouth, the smoke curls up in her eyes and she squints like a gun-moll in a B movie.

Once in a while she smokes filters and lights up the wrong end. For an hour after, the house smells like the east wind from Akron's tire plants.

Do you feel my wife should quit smoking just because I want her to?—AGINIT.

Dear Aginit: Generally speaking, if an adult woman wants to smell up her hair, discolor her teeth, and disregard medical findings which have linked cigarettes to lung cancer, I think she should be able to do so as a matter of independence.

However, when a wife's smoking is a definite irritant to the man she has promised to love, honor and cherish she'd be a fool to continue, it seems to me.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Help for the Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Mr. and Mrs. Bayne Fly To Hawaii for Honeymoon

At a fully choral service in St. Luke's Anglican Church, Jillian Maureen, daughter of Mrs. Neesham, Carey Road, and the late Francis Neesham, was united in marriage with Mr. Robert Roskell Bayne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Bayne, Alberni.

Rev. T. D. B. Ragg performed the double ring ceremony on Saturday evening.

Mr. Alfred Blundell whose family has been friends of the Neesham family for more than 80-years, gave the bride away.

The bride was lovely in a gown of French brocaded satin styled on classic lines with scalloped high neckline, lily point sleeves and a full skirt sweeping into a train. A cap of rhinestones held her veil of illusion and she carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and stephanotis with strands of ivy. Her pearl necklace and earrings were gifts from the groom.

Miss Marilyn Phillips was maid of honor and wore a waltz length dress of bronze chrystal charmeline with headdress to match. Her bouquet was of harvest moon carnations and bronze chrysanthemums.

Junior bridesmaids, Susan Shannon and Lyn Oddy, wore dresses of the same material, orange ice in color, and with floral cummerbunds. They had headdresses to match and carried colonial bouquets.

Mr. Ronald Garnham was groomsman and Mr. Allan Bayne, Mr. Frank Preston and Mr. John Dunbar Jr., acted as ushers.

At the reception for more than 100 guests held in the Georgian Lounge of the Empress Hotel, Mr. Jack Dunbar proposed the toast to the bride.

Leaving by plane to spend a honeymoon in Hawaii the new Mrs. Bayne wore a geranium red silk suit, black and red style hat and veil, black accessories and corsage of a white orchid and stephanotis. On their return they will reside temporarily at 4024 Carey Road.

Seed Pearl Tiara 'Something Old'

Her sister's fingertip-length veil was "something borrowed" for Mary Gibson when she exchanged vows with Douglas Ernest Norman Wilson in First United Church. Rev. A. I. Higgins officiated. "Something old" was the seed pearl tiara that was made from her mother's wedding headpiece. Her couturier gown of white nylon over satin was styled on princess lines and trimmed with dainty edgings of blue lace. It had a low neckline that dipped to a V at back, short sleeves and very full skirt.

White heather and red and white carnations were in her bouquet. Only jewelry was a necklet of pearls.

Pink and white gladioli decorated the church for the double-ring candlelight ceremony. Organist was William McNeil.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Carle B. Gibson of 1569 Gregory Place, and Mr. and Mrs. James W. H. Wilson of 1672 Cedar Avenue.

Identical gowns of pale blue nylon over taffeta, styled on princess lines, were chosen by maid of honor, Miss Marilyn Martin, and bridesmaid Miss Marlene Wilson, sister of the groom. Blue bandeaux and veiling completed the ensembles. Pink and white carnations were in their bouquets.

FLOWER GIRL

Tiny cousin of the bride, Brenda Runer, wore a flower girl dress in pale green nylon over taffeta. She wore a headband of tiny pink carnations and carried a miniature bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Geoffrey Thorpe was best man and ushers were Herbert Wilson, the groom's brother, and Trevar Gibson, bride's brother.

A reception was held at Holyrood House.

Stan Borwick, cousin of the bride, proposed the toast to her happiness. S. Shobelen was master of ceremonies.

Three-tier wedding cake, made by Mrs. C. B. Greene and decorated by Mrs. V. Kirkham, centred the head table which had red and white carnations as table decor.

Bone white sheath and three-quarter-length jacket was chosen by the new Mrs. Wilson for a honeymoon trip to the United States. Outfit was complemented with rose accessories and black patent handbag and shoes. Corsage was of pink carnations. Newlyweds will make their home in Victoria.

New Zealand Family Gathers for Reunion

A memorable one-day reunion for the six surviving members of a well-known New Zealand family which originally numbered thirteen, is due to take place at Vancouver on Thursday, Sept. 15, when the O & P. 30,000-ton liner Iberia arrives from London via the Panama.

Among the Iberia's 1,075 passengers are Miss Ida G. Willis, OBE, RRC, ED, and Miss Peggy Willis, who are returning to their New Zealand home at Raumati Beach after spending three months in England. Eastbound, the sisters travelled via the Suez canal; thus upon reaching New Zealand, they will have completed a round-the-world voyage.

AT VANCOUVER

For the journey home, they will be joined at Vancouver by a third sister, Mrs. Vera Lawson, who has been visiting relatives in Eastern Canada and on Vancouver Island. Mrs. Lawson resides at Raumati Beach.

The Iberia sails on Friday afternoon.

BROTHERS

Also on hand when the Iberia arrives will be the sisters' three brothers, who have made their homes in Canada for the past 50 years and all saw service in the First World War. They are Major F. B. Willis, MC, of Flin Flon, Man.; Captain K. A. Willis, Courtenay, V. I., and Major George Willis-Nicholson, MC, of Victoria, B.C. Two other brothers were killed in action in the First World War.

Miss I. G. Willis, who wears a row of ten award and service ribbons, served overseas as a nursing sister with the New Zealand Expeditionary Forces in the First World War; first during the capture and subsequent occupation of Samoa by the New Zealanders a few weeks after war broke out; and afterwards in Egypt, Salonika, England and France.

Miss Willis was later appointed Director-General of New Zealand nursing services, retiring after the Second World War with rank of Brigadier General.

Miss P. Willis is also a former nurse.

Mrs. Lawson is the widow of Will Lawson, the noted New Zealand and Australian writer and poet; the author of "Pacific Steamers", "Steam in the South Pacific", "Three Kings and other Verses", "Between the Lights", "The Red West Road", and "Stokin' and other Verses".

While the brothers and sisters have on several occasions individually visited back and forth between New Zealand and Canada, the meeting together at Vancouver will be their first in 55 years and 6000 miles from their homeland.

The Misses Ida and Peggy Willis visited Victoria in 1952, when they were entertained by members of the Victoria branch of the ex-Nursing Sisters Association.

Officers Plan 'Battle' Dinner

Annual Battle of Britain dinner will be held by the Air Force Officers' Association at 7 p.m. Saturday in the officers' mess of the RCAF Urban Centre, 1212 Quadra.

VON Receives $300

Mrs. W. W. Findlay, president of the Board of Management, Victorian Order of Nurses, received a cheque for $300 presented by Mrs. G. A. Jones, president of the VON Auxiliary, at the September meeting of the Board in Spencerhouse recently. The sum is to be used for the Education Fund established for VON staff post-graduate work.

Miss Laura Einarson, Miss Hanna Pedersen and Mrs. Treharne John, were introduced as new staff members by Miss E. Riddell, nursing director.

Chairman of the VON division of the Community Chest Campaign Canvass, Oct. 3, will be Mrs. Harold Webster, with Mrs. Fred Norris as co-chairman. It was announced that Mrs. Elsie Pollock has consented to act as "Miss Red Feather for VON."

Mr. T. W. L. Mutch gave the Motors report in the absence of Mr. V. Price. Mrs. T. F. Rose announced that receipts from the spring rummage sale had risen to $1,500. Mrs. Dudley Markham, nominations Chairman, reported that Dr. Leslie Horne had agreed to replace Dr. J. McIntyre on the Medical Advisory Committee.

Visits to 770 patients during June, July and August totalled 5,427, according to Miss Riddell's service report. An increase of 4.28% in Obstetrical visits over the same period last year was noted. Total attendance at Parentcraft Classes in the summer months was 180 for discussions and 137 for exercises.

Extra big sugar cookies with plenty of light or dark raisins always please youngsters. One to a customer, with a glass of chilled whole fruit nectar, makes a satisfying energy-giving snack for summer afternoons.

WHAT'S COOKING

By LOUISE MOORE

My butcher was in a talkative mood the other day when I went in to buy a good sized fowl for a chicken casserole. "Women," he remarked, "are getting too lazy to cook a decent meal these days. They want everything in packages.

Maybe he is right but I still believe most of us can be proud of our achievements in the kitchen when we put our minds to it. Good, wholesome and nutritious meals are important every day in the week—not just as company affairs.

SERIOUS

Preparing those three meals a day is a serious business. They mean the difference between a happy healthy home and a home filled with inefficient, sluggish half-well members.

Cooking is an art requiring as much creative and artistic ability as that in mastering any other art—painting, sculpture, etc. And it requires all the culinary knowledge available. Through ability to turn out nourishing appetizing food the homemaker wields the power to soothe the world.

Eat something from each of these groups each day: Green and yellow vegetables; oranges and other citrus fruits; potatoes and other vegetables and fruits; meat, poultry, fish or eggs, dried beans, nutmeats; milk and milk products — whole milk, skim milk, evaporated and dry skim milk, buttermilk, cream, all kinds of cheese, ice cream; bread, flour, natural whole grain cereals; butter and margarine. After the daily requirements of these essential foods little need will be found for others.

Plan menus for at least one week at a time, keeping in mind the basic food needs and leaving a little leaway for using leftovers.

Look over supplies before going on a shopping trip. Read the advertisements in your newspaper to find best bargains: compare prices and shop around before buying.

TIPS FOR PARENTS

By EDITH HENRY

You can use better meals to build a better family.

A mother who is particular about diet, who takes extra vitamins during pregnancy and while nursing her child can help to ensure that the infant will have even, well-developed teeth.

Once a child's teeth have erupted, parents must consider food in a dual role.

NOURISHING

Food, now assimilated by the child himself, must continue to nourish and build teeth.

A varied diet is recommended, ensuring no prolonged deficiency in necessary vitamins and minerals.

Studies show that "teeth developed with fluoridated water are cavity resistant, and their enamel is less soluble in acids."

Food plays its second role as it touches teeth.

When it is wedged between a tooth and the surrounding tissue, or between one tooth and another, it can affect the breakdown of the enamel or promote unhealthy tissue.

CAKE

Carbohydrate foods, sugars and starch as in cake and pastry, are the chief offenders.

They produce acids which dissolve enamel and provide a media for the growth of bacteria.

Adolescents who "live on" soft drinks, ice cream and milk shakes unconsciously disclose the cause of their excessive cavities.

Wild-Driving Teen-Agers Plead Guilty to Car Theft

Pleading guilty in open city police court yesterday to a joint charge of car theft, two youths were remanded by Magistrate William Ostler to Sept. 20 for probation reports and sentence.

Walter Graham, 16, and Charles Casey, 17, both transferred from juvenile court, were subject of a high-speed police chase through city streets Saturday evening.

Cpl. Joseph Barlow of Victoria police said the two took a car belonging to W. M. Crawford, 3903 Cedar Hill, from a parking place at Yates and Wharf, starting it by crossing the ignition wires.

Spotted soon after on Esquimalt Road, they were stopped about 15 or 20 minutes later.

A near-accident involving a number of children marked the end of the chase in Esquimalt. Prosecutor T. P. O'Grady said there might be further charges against the pair in Esquimalt.

Two Victorians were given jail sentences when they appeared before Deputy Magistrate J. A. Byers yesterday.

William Pepper, 18, was given a nine-month term for breaking, entering and attempted theft at Burkmar's Shell Service, 326 Bay, Aug. 28.

A 30-day term was handed down to Wallace Doll, who had been convicted of a breach of recognizance. Ordered on a previous charge to keep the peace, he was charged with violating that order by making a threatening telephone call.

In Saanich court yesterday Edward Gary Brooke, 3496 Calumet, pleaded guilty to being a minor in possession of liquor—a small quantity of beer—and was fined $20.

Moscow Cheers U.S. Ballet

MOSCOW (UPI) — The American Ballet Theatre troupe last night made a brilliant debut in Moscow, the international capital of ballet.

The company, one of the youngest in the world, danced to U.S. and Russian classics (Copland and Tchaikovsky), and won rousing applause, curtain calls, and cheers from the audience of Russian ballet experts.

Maria Tallchief and Erick Bruhn were the favorites. Bruhn was described by some as the best male dancer seen here for many years.

Open House At Malahat

Facilities of HMCS Malahat, Victoria's naval reserve unit, at 1002 Wharf, will be open for inspection Thursday night and the following Thursday night, from 7.30 to 10.30 p.m.

Particularly invited are boys 16 years and over and girls 18 and over, who are eligible to enlist in the RCN reserve.

Members of the reserve division will be on hand to describe the many activities offered and films will be shown. Refreshments will be served.

ANCIENT SITE

The huge stone monoliths on Salisbury Plain at Stonehenge are believed to have been standing for 4,000 years.

Death by Fall Accidental

Death at Sidney last Friday of Ronald Geoffrey Marshall, 47, a Saanichton carpenter, was ruled accidental yesterday by a coroner's jury in an inquest at McCall's funeral home in Victoria.

Mr. Marshall, the jury was told, had been working on construction of a service station at East Saanich Road and Swartz Bay Highway, and had gone up a ladder to the roof in front of a dormer-type window.

A. Boas, contractor, said he was working inside the building when he heard a "slipping" sound. Going outside, he found Mr. Marshall lying on the blacktop at the foot of the ladder, 16 feet below the roof.

Mr. Marshall, with head injuries, was first taken to Rest Haven Hospital by Sidney volunteer firemen, then to Royal Jubilee Hospital for special surgery. He was declared dead on arrival at the city hospital.

"RANCH-PANEL"

The handsome new siding designed to give "NEW" natural beauty to your home, inside and out!

ONE LOOK — and you'll want to "RANCHPANEL" RIGHT AWAY!

You'll want to be first to "RANCHPANEL" your home the very moment you get your first look at this distinctive new siding. Sawn from specially selected cedar logs and graded to accentuate the naturally beautiful markings of British Columbia cedar, new "RANCHPANEL" provides a delightfully different, unmistakably modern look wherever it's used.

FINE FAMILY HOME
1500 SQ. FT.
This lovely older family home is quietly nestled in the centre of its spacious, TREED GROUNDS, and is located in a dignified residential area. The home is extremely well built, and all rooms are large, bright and have a comfortable atmosphere, so often lacking in many newer houses. Large, well decorated livingroom with "IN LINE" separate large diningroom, giving an overall entertaining area of 35 ft. Beautiful built-in diningroom sideboards, QUAINT SUNROOM through french doors from the dining room, large and sheltered kitchen (but warm and modern in design (large enough to accommodate an oil range as well as an electric range). Two large bedrooms as well as a COMFY DEN with fireplace (which could be a spare bedroom), AUTOMATIC HOT WATER HEATING OF THE BEST TYPE. Radiators in every room. This home is spotless and has a nice basement. Early possession. For appointment to view please call Mr. Blannin Eves. EV 5-1195.

Startling Victory

Simple Red Candy Key in Polio War

COPENHAGEN (Reuters)—A Soviet doctor startled a congress of scientists here by suddenly pulling out a box of candy and starting to suck one in the middle of a long technical speech on poliomyelitis.

In doing so, he gave new evidence at man-in-the-street level of how the battle against polio is being won.

LARGEST DRIVE

The candy, explained Dr. M. P. Chumakov of Moscow's Institute of Polio Research, contained anti-polio virus. And this, he told the 44-nation polio conference, is the way in which the Soviet Union now is carrying out the world's largest mass polio vaccination campaign.

More than 75,000,000 Soviet citizens between the ages of three months and 30 years now are taking the vaccine in the form of "candy balls" the size of cherry stones.

BEFORE YEAR

Dr. Marina Vorshilova, another Russian expert, said that "in future, all children will be given these vaccine candies before they are 12 months old."

* * *

U.S. Vaccine Saving Millions

* * *

In the last year, she said, 95 per cent of live vaccine administered in the Soviet Union has been taken in the form of candy.

A person is given one of the candies every month for four months. The first three contain vaccine against the three types of polio while the fourth is a "booster" combination of all three.

HUGE PRODUCTION

Prof. Victor Zhadanov, organizer of the Soviet Union's anti-polio campaign, said more than 100,000,000 of the vaccine candies were made in the first three months of this year.

The Soviet Union also had supplied vaccine for 10,000,000 people in Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, China and North Viet Nam.

Zhadanov gave highest praise to the U.S. scientist who produced the vaccine, Dr. Albert Sabin of the University of Cincinnati.

CASES DROPPED

"After carrying out many tests, we are convinced of the value and harmlessness of this vaccine," he said. "Cases of polio paralysis have dropped to one-tenth of their former total in vaccinated areas."

The Soviet scientists also praised the work of Dr. Jonas Salk, the pioneer of the earlier type of "dead" vaccine.

Canadian delegates told of a new "cocktail vaccine" which they have developed.

NOT IN FUTURE

Children of the future will not have to be immunized against polio with one special vaccine, prophesied Dr. D. R. E. MacLeod of the University of Toronto.

It will be possible, he hoped, to give them all a "cocktail vaccination" during the first few months of their lives, which will protect them at once against diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and polio.

Does Ontario's Fort William Really Belong to the Indians?

FORT WILLIAM, Ont. (CP)—Chief Frank Pelletier of the Fort William Indian band says he and his council plan to consult Indian Senator James Gladstone about the possibility that most of Fort William is built on their land and may belong to them.

Chief Pelletier said the band has a copy of a treaty signed in 1850 that may support the view.

The treaty gave Chief Joseph Peau-de-chat and his tribe a reserve starting about two miles inland from Fort William on the right bank of the Kaministiquia River. The boundary was set as running westerly six miles, parallel to the shore of Lake Superior, then five miles north, and then east to the right bank of the river.

The site would be the same as that now occupied by much of the city.

The chief said surveyors, however, surveyed land on the opposite side of the river from that described by the treaty. He believes this may have been done at the instigation of Governor McIntyre of the Hudson's Bay Company.

There were 31 per cent more people registered for work than in August of 1959.

Big Issues or None China Tells U.S.

PEKING (Reuters) — The Chinese Communist government says future Chinese-American discussions must tackle only major issues such as the withdrawal of U.S. forces from Formosa.

"Minor questions" — such as an exchange of newspaper reporters between the two countries should be shelved in future ambassador-level talks.

Ambassadorial talks between the U.S. and China have been held periodically for five years by the Chinese and U.S. ambassadors in Poland, Wang Ting-nan and Jacob Beam.

Following five years of talks, China said it must "draw the conclusion there is no need in future to waste time again on minor questions."

"Efforts should first be devoted to settling fundamental issues."

Christian Education Workshop This Week

A Christian education workshop, arranged by five Baptist churches in Victoria, will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Stevenson Memorial Baptist Church on Townley Avenue.

Program will include discussions on boys' and girls' work, Sunday school, mission band, vacation Bible school, missionary education, teaching methods and visual aids, together with inspirational messages.

Opening session will be at 7.30 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. S. H. Cassels is chairman and speakers will include Rev. Donald MacIver, director of boys' work for the Baptist Union of Western Canada and vice-principal of the Baptist Leadership Training School in Calgary; Miss Grace Barritt, director of Christian education for the Baptist churches of B.C.; and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Troutt, directors of Christian education at First Baptist Church in Victoria.

Use TV Clerics Urged

TORONTO (CP)—Anglican clergymen were told Tuesday the church must become more involved in television and radio broadcasting.

Rev. Dana Kennedy, executive secretary for radio and television of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the U.S., said the church has always used the media of its age to spread its gospel.

"If the church does not put itself, its activities and its faith before the community as the vital on-going body it is, relatively few in the community will know it exists," Mr. Kennedy warned.

Money for programs should be raised by the church rather than appealing to listeners or sponsors.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE HELPS BREAK DOWN FATS

IN THE DIGESTIVE TRACT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fats . . . actually breaks them down. It is an established fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fats are broken down and form a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your digestive tract, liver bile helps break down fats the same way. Many of the foods you eat reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down these fats . . . for easier and more complete digestion.

Remember, Carter's not only relieve irregularity, but actually improve the flow of liver bile. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today!

Canada Bans 'Buzzing' of Red Ships by Service Planes

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has acceded to Soviet demands that Canadian military planes stop "buzzing" Russian trawlers operating off Canada's east coast, it was learned reliably Tuesday.

"Buzzing" means flying low. In the case of RCAF and RCN planes on North Atlantic patrol it means flying low over the Russian ships for the purpose of identification and, sometimes, of photographing the vessels.

It is understood that the government order also applies to RCAF planes which keep a close eye on Russian-occupied ice islands in the Arctic Ocean.

It is believed the government order was issued to avoid any possibility of an accident, such as a Canadian plane colliding with a Russian ship.

However, the RCAF and RCN will continue to make surveillance flights, though not approaching the Russian vessels as closely as before.

On July 14, David Johnston, Canadian ambassador to Moscow was called to the Soviet foreign office to hear a complaint that on four occasions Canadian planes had "buzzed" Soviet ships at sea.

After investigation of the trawler incidents, the government now has ordered a ban on low flights over Soviet fishing vessels.

Tuesday a rumor made the rounds here that Russian trawlers had been seen in the mouth of the St. Lawrence River, supposedly to monitor radio communications during the big air defence exercise Sky Shield last Saturday.

Authorities discounted the rumor, apparently based on the report of an airline pilot. They said there were no Russian vessels in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Deported Bishop Goes Into Exile

Deported by government of South Africa, where he led assault on apartheid, Dr. Ambrose Reeves, Anglican Bishop of Johannesburg, was greeted by his wife on arrival in his native London last night. He charged South Africa is nearly a police state and said he would keep his Johannesburg post in exile. Details on Page 3.—(AP Photofax.)

'Shoot Apartheid' Pratt's Mission

★ ★ ★

PRETORIA (Reuters)—Wealthy white farmer David Pratt, 53, said Tuesday he had a "violent urge" to shoot "the stinking monster" of South African racial laws when he pumped two bullets into Prime Minister Verwoerd at a farm show in April.

"If my intention had been to kill him, I could have," Pratt said in a long statement in the second day of his trial for attempted murder.

MENTAL CHECKUP

The court ordered him committed for two weeks to a mental institution for observation.

A psychiatrist, citing Pratt's history of mental disturbances and epileptic fits dating back to the age of eight, testified that he was unfit to plead on the charge.

Pratt said he wanted to "shoot apartheid" which he said "was gripping the throat of South Africa and preventing South Africa from achieving its rightful place among nations."

"But I did not fully associate that with the prime minister." He only wanted to maim Verwoerd to "give him opportunity to consider some of the things that were going on.

"To me," he said, "my abnormalities do not represent insanity. There is a pattern in everything that has taken place."

Pratt said he had returned from a trip to Europe early this year and was "horrified at the disintegration" while he was away.

STARTED IN 1954

He said his "sense of mission" had built up from 1954 and added "I can tell you now what I should have told you in 1954:

"South Africa has got to come out of her wilderness. She has a great and glorious future waiting for her under the basic laws of God and human beings which in the words of Mr. (Prime Minister) Macmillan is rule by merit not by pigent of skin."

SIMPLE PLUNGE

He urged South Africans to take one simple initial plunge "and throw nationalism out" if they are worthy of the future."

"If you are not worthy of it," Pratt added, "at least I shall never feel guilty again."

Russia or No Place, Says Leader

Sorokin Doubts That 'Sons' Will Ever Leave Province

NELSON (CP) — The spiritual leader of British Columbia's Sons of Freedom Doukhobors doubts whether the sect will ever leave the province.

Stefan Sorokin said here it boils down to "a migration to Russia or no place."

Asked if he would return to South America to continue an eight-year search for a new home for the Sons, Mr. Sorokin said he could only search "if my people wish me to."

He said that so far the radical sect has not expressed a wish.

In past years the Sons of Freedom have often announced migrations — back to Russia, their homeland, the likeliest.

8,000,000 Canadians Don't Belong to Church

OTTAWA (CP) — Between 8,000,000 and 9,000,000 Canadians do not belong to any church, Rev. Morse Robinson of the Anglican Church mission department, said Tuesday.

"The Christian in Canada could belong to a diminishing minority in the next century," he said.

Lumumba's Men Get Full Power In Congo Crisis

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—A joint session of the Congolese Parliament voted Tuesday to give "full powers" to the government of Patrice Lumumba during the present crisis.

Observers said Lumumba backers planned to make the unspecified powers retroactive to Sept. 1 to invalidate Lumumba"s dismissal Sept. 5 by President Joseph Kasavubu.

ARREST WARRANT

In another development, a spokesman at Kasavubu's residence said Tuesday night that an arrest warrant has been made out against Gen. Victor Lundula, head of Lumumba's Congolese army. Lundula has been held responsible for freeing Lumumba after his arrest Monday.

No definition of the powers was given. But in asking that they be voted, Lumumba's information minister, Anicet Kashamura, said they would first be used to order the arrest of anyone claiming to be a minister who was not backed by a vote of confidence from Parliament.

CURB KASAVUBU

Kashamura said the powers would also be used to limit the political activity of Kasavubu, who named Senate President Joseph Ileo as premier in an attempt to dismiss Lumumba.

Loud cheers rang through the chamber as Lumumba strode in. Few opposition members were present. He told the joint session he bears no ill will now against Kasavubu.

"If Kasavubu wants a reconciliation, I am ready," he said.

Dag Under Fire

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The Soviet Union accused Dag Hammarskjold Tuesday of violating Security Council resolutions by taking action regarded as unfriendly toward Premier Patrice Lumumba of the Congo.

Valerian Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, asked for an immediate session of the council to consider the charges against the UN secretary-general, but he failed to get one.

IN LETTER

He made the request in a letter to Egidio Ortona of Italy, council president this month.

Zorin asked for a 3 p.m. meeting. But Ortona did not find enough support among other council members for an afternoon meeting. After private consultation, the president called a session for 11 a.m. today.

AFRICANS MEET

Outside UN headquarters, chief delegates of African nations met behind closed doors with the two rival delegations sent here from the Congo—one representing Lumumba and the other President Joseph Kasavubu.

Space 'Catch' Today

VANDENBURG BASE, Calif. (AP) — Discoverer XV roared into polar orbit Tuesday carrying a capsule the United States Air Force hopes to catch near Hawaii late today.

If recovered, it will be three in a row for the American side in the world "space ball" game. The first one recovered by the U.S. was pulled out of the sea. The second was snagged by a plane.

But Russia successfully brought back from orbit a far heavier capsule that contained animals.

SECOND STAGE

The air force announced the rocket's second stage had gone into orbit less than two hours after it was shot aloft.

On its 17th trip around the earth—about 9 p.m. EDT today—the satellite is to eject its capsule somewhere over the Arctic. Thirty minutes later planes trailing huge trapeze nets will try to snag the capsule as it parachutes toward the 60-by-200-mile target area north of Hawaii.

OTHER RECOVERIES

Discoverer XIV's capsule was recovered this way Aug. 19.

The capsule from Discoverer XII slipped past waiting planes Aug. 11 but was fished from the ocean minutes later.

Two days after the recovery of Discoverer XIV's capsule the Russians announced they had recovered a larger capsule carrying two dogs and some smaller animals.

Tory 'Win' Muddles Britons

LONDON (CP) — British newspaper readers can be forgiven if they are not clear on the results of the B.C. election.

"As they were—Tories win," says The Daily Express headline.

The Daily Telegraph doesn't make any mistake about the winning party, but ....

Its nearest rivals, the Conservatives, have won 14 seats," it says.

The Times was the only London newspaper to tell its readers that the Social Credit, CCF and Liberals parties finished in that order.

Safety of Nikita, Castro, Nasser Big U.S. Worry

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States last night speedily rejected a Soviet protest against American regulations restricting Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to Manhattan Island during his attendance at the United Nations next week.

The U.S. said curbs on Khrushchev's movements were designed to protect him and "specifically to assure to Mr. Khrushchev the unhindered fulfillment of his mission to the United Nations."

UNUSUAL SPEED

The state department, acting with unusual speed, delivered its formal rejection less than six hours after Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov handed Secretary of State Christian A. Herter a Russian note protesting the restrictions.

The Soviet note complained that the restrictions are unwarranted and designed to worsen relations rather than improve them.

RESPONSIBILITIES

The American note rejected such suggestions and pointed out that under the UN headquarters agreement the United States has certain responsibilities regarding the protection of delegates and must assure "their unimpeded transit to and from the United Nations headquarters.

The state department's security problem was already formidable in view of the imminent arrival of Khrushchev, other top Communist bosses and United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser. But it was further magnified with the announcement that Cuban Premier Fidel Castro would lead the Cuban delegation to the UN meeting.

TRAVEL CURBS

The state department was considering the possibility of clamping travel restrictions on the bearded Cuban leader in view of the many anti-Castro refugees living in the New York area.

Officials said they were actually more worried about the possibility of danger to Castro, Hungarian Communist party chief Janos Kadar, and United Arab Republic President Abdel Nasser than they were to Khrushchev.

Green Heads UN Party

OTTAWA (UPI)—External Affairs Minister Howard Green said yesterday that he will lead Canada's delegation at the United Nations session in New York next week.

Fire Moving On Hospital

OLD PERLICAN, Nfld. (CP) —A forest fire was reported burning out of control Tuesday, moving directly towards a hospital.

Hospital staff in gas masks were evacuating patients as bulldozers threw up a fire break.

It was the second time within a week the 45 patients have been evacuated because of forest fires.

Cabinet Shuffle Certain

The remote far-northern riding of Atlin remained undecided yesterday while recounts appeared certain in three ridings won narrowly by Social Credit in Monday's provincial election.

With 10 polls out of 15 counted in Atlin, where 1,335 eligible voters are scattered over thousands of square miles of undeveloped country, Social Credit candidate W. J. Asselstine held a tenuous 20-vote lead over CCF opponent Frank Calder.

TORY FAR BACK

Asselstine, a former Liberal cabinet minister who won the seat in 1956, had 244 votes to 224 for Calder, who sat in the legislature for the riding from 1949 to 1956. The Progressive Conservative candidate was in last place with 110 votes.

With Atlin still doubtful the standing of the parties is:

	1960	1956
Social Credit	32	39
CCF	15	10
Liberals	4	2
Labor	0	1

Meanwhile, the tumult and shouting over, speculation turned to new cabinet appointments and the possibility that final tallies might see further Social Credit losses in the Vancouver Island ridings of Nanaimo and the Islands, Comox and the interior constituency of Yale.

FISHING VOTES

Official results of the election won't be known until after absentee ballots are counted Sept. 24—and in the two Island ridings, at least, CCF candidates are hoping to pick up enough votes from fishermen to swing the balance from defeat to victory.

In Nanaimo Recreation Minister Earle Westwood has a majority of 112 over CCFer Colin Cameron while in Comox Socred Dan Campbell has a

Only developed public beach at Lake Cowichan, is the claim of Kiwanis officials for this inviting scene a mile from Lake Cowichan village. Club members have been working on it for two years. (Colonist photo by Charles Thompson.)

Cowichan Project

Fine, New Kiwanis Park Opens Access to Lake

LAKE COWICHAN — Lakeshore property owners here are among the most lenient in the world.

They have allowed the public —mostly for free— to get to the lake until this summer when a road was carved out of 172 acres of an old logging claim owned by the government.

LAKEVIEW PARK

Kiwanis Club members, under government supervision, are developing Lakeview Park, a mile from the village on the south shore road. About 500 feet of the 4,000-foot shoreline has been cleared, a boat launching site nearly finished and several hundred feet of land cleared from the water line to allow plenty of space and three campsites.

"It seems kind of strange, but it is the only place you can send a tourist down to the lake," said Elmer Tenney, Park Chairman, yesterday. "You can't even see the lake from this side."

GOVERNMENT PLANS

It is being developed to government plans. Only difference between the Class C lakeside park and a Class A is that the government puts up the money for a Class A but the community pays for a Class C.

"We're broke now," said Mr. Tenney, but admitted the club isn't worried. It has spent more than $1,500 and worked "hundreds" of hours on the project. "But I want to get it straight that we're not bumming for money."

WHOLE LAKE

Letters are to be sent soon to the united organizations and community clubs here because the park is for the whole lake, he said.

Plans are continuing optimistically with the opening planned for next June at the club's annual regatta.

"We've got the roads in, enough of the shoreline cleared for the time but now we need grass seed, among other things," he said.

Port Alberni

34 Horses Entered In Show

PORT ALBERNI — A total of 34 horses were entered in the horse show and gymkhana held here in conjunction with the fall fair.

Quoshannon Chief, owned by Jim Spence and ridden by Joan Addison, both of Nanaimo, won the grand aggregate trophy and also the McCulloch Award given each year for the best turned out horse and rider in the parade of horses.

WEANLING COLT

A half-Morgan colt, Tampico Chief, owned by Tom Richmond, Alberni, received the Rogers Beauty Salon Trophy for best weanling colt or filly.

Quoshannon Chief also took the Alberni District Fall Fair Cup and first prize money in the western working class.

RUNNER-UP

Acodina, ridden by Susan McCarthy, was winner in the bridle path hack class and was runner-up for the aggregate trophy.

Miss McCarthy on Acodina won the Brite Spot Perpetual Trophy for junior equitation, while Miss Addison on Quoshannon Chief topped western style riders in junior equitation.

Miss McCarthy was first in open jumping followed by Sally Cassidy on San Fernando. Lady Patches ridden by Val Smith, Yellowpoint, took the West Coast Freight Trophy for junior jumping.

Dog Training Underway

GANGES—A 12-week course in dog obedience training commenced Friday in Central Hall, under the direction of Mrs. Al Best, Crofton. Twelve dogs were registered in the beginners' class.

Dogs which took previous training will be promoted to the Companion Dog Excellence class. Following completion of the course, obedience trials will be held.

Re-elected to office in the Salt Spring Island Dog Obedience Club were: W. P. Evans, president; Mrs. H. Hoffman, vice-president; H. Hoffman, secretary, and Mrs. M. Winteringham, treasurer.

Bus Route Change Due

GANGES—School buses will be re-routed on Salt Spring Island to accommodate an increase in the number of students in certain areas, it was reported at a meeting of the trustees of School District 64 (Gulf Islands). Enrolment in the various schools now stands at: Ganges, 375; Galiano Island, 48; Pender, 36; Saturna, 30, and Mayne, 11.

Big Boost Asked In Dog Licences For Duncan Area

DUNCAN—City council is studying a request from the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals that would increase female dog licence costs 150 per cent or more.

In a letter the SPCA asked for a change in the formal agreement so it would be ensured adequate income to maintain a shelter, inspector and other services.

LETTER TABLED

The letter was tabled. Ald. James Saunders, city's member on the SPCA board, is to attend the society's next meeting for more information.

The SPCA asks for $1,000 a year. It now gets 80 per cent of dog licence fees it collects. Last year, before the SPCA contract, city employees collected $480.

$250 GRANT

Present fee is $2 for a male or female dog. The SPCA suggested that the fee for a male could be raised to $3 and $5 for each female to bring in $775 a year, then council could give a $250 grant, or to get the money could increase fees to $4 and $6 to get the entire $1,000.

City clerk Gordon Berry said yesterday it was generally felt that there was a need for an increase in licence fees.

Water Cost Probe Asked

DUNCAN — A ratepayers' group from the Sherman-Somenos Road area has asked the city for an engineer's cost survey to extend water to the area.

School board officials had been working to get water to the area for the district's new Mount Prevost Junior High School now being built. But the board met with little success.

The ratepayers met at a public meeting; 20 signed a petition then sent a four-man delegation to speak to city council that was meeting the same evening.

City council agreed to the survey after talking to M. C. Smith, Dan Droedisk, George Flemming and Wilf Peck. The public meeting chairman was Ron McCondach, who sold the school property to the district.

The water system is owned by the city, and the area is outside the city in North Cowichan.

Previously estimated cost was $3 a foot. The petition asks that the costs be for a line on Sherman, Somenos and Auchinachie Roads, more than half a mile.

Duncan Fair Up $400

DUNCAN—Gate receipts at the Cowichan Exhibition this year topped 1959 by $400, officials said yesterday.

There were 4,465 adults and 936 teen-agers who paid $2,499 to get in. Final financial status of the exhibition is not known.

Robert Bell of Cowichan Station won the exhibition's raffle for a steer. Mrs. Margaret May, resident here, won a 42-piece cookware set.

Burned-Out Blacksmith Carries On

DUNCAN — Seventy-nine-year-old George Grassie will definitely be starting up blacksmithing again.

City officials have decided to rent him the old public works building on McAdam Street. His shop was burned to the ground Wednesday.

The only smithy which shoes horses between the Malahat and Nanaimo is conducting business on a reduced scale, he said, until he can get a forge set up.

He took over his father's business, and together they have had blacksmith shops in Duncan for 65 years.

Directional Sign Asked At Duncan

DUNCAN — The retail division of the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce yesterday appointed a two-man committee to approach city council for a directional sign north of town pointing to the business district.

The meeting also suggested that the cost of a sign, similar to the chamber's sign south of town, could be financed with money from the city's new business tax that received its final approval before council Monday.

Cliff Pascoe and Gil Thom, who suggested the city pay the cost, are to approach council.

Sced to Head Duncan Group

DUNCAN — Al Sced was elected chairman of the retail division, Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce, yesterday.

Colder Winters Lie Ahead—But Worry Not, Victoria

A U.S. geologist's prediction that B.C. is heading for colder winters is probably quite sound, says weatherman William Mackie, but Victorians can safely curb any sudden inclination to invest in mukluks and parkas.

Mr. Mackie pointed out yesterday that long-term weather trends are slow to materialize and extremely gradual in effect.

He said there seemed to be sound reasoning behind the theory of Dr. Maynard Millar, Montana State University geology professor, that an 80 to 90-year warming trend along the Pacific from Washington to Alaska has reached its peak and that a return to "old-fashioned winters" may begin within five years.

The geologist said the prediction is based upon long-term glacier studies, increased precipitation, more storms and the general rise in temperature which can be measured over protracted periods.

Dr. Millar, 39, made his predictions in Seattle after another summer studying the chain of glaciers between Washington and Alaska.

Mr. Mackie said there is no doubt the world is subjected to warming and cooling periods, but added that if the Pacific northwest has reached its speak on a warmer trend, the peak itself could last several years.

He said there is evidence that there has been a net increase in temperatures in the area stemming back to the turn of the century, or even earlier.

But he said the task of plotting such long-term trends is made difficult because of the fact that "in the New World our records really only go back about 100 years." And even those are suspect because civilization has changed the topographical environment around the points where readings are obtained.

He said temperature readings in Victoria, for instance, probably cannot be accurately compared over the years because of removal of more and more vegetation and the effect this would have through heat absorbed by bare ground.

If a downward temperature trend does develop, he said, it probably would never be detected by the average person because it would be so gradual from year-to-year and might have a net effect annually of only a fraction of a degree.

Hope for City Shipbuilders Seen in Coast Guard Plan

★ ★ ★

Ottawa Will Build Six Patrol Cutters

Mayor Percy Scurrah last night saw hope for relief of mounting unemployment in Victoria's hard-pressed shipyards this winter if the federal government would take immediate action on plans announced yesterday for a Canadian coast guard program.

Tarnsport Minister George Hees said in Nova Scotia that six watchdog patrol cutters, including two for service on the west coast, and a general weather radar program will form the basis of the new service.

"I hope the government has got this thing past the stage of just talking about it," said Mayor Scurrah.

The mayor said that if the government already had plans drawn up for even one ship these could be duplicated and the shipbuilding program started at once to provide jobs for contract-starved west coast yards.

'An Awful Row'

"The ships (that will operate on the west coast) had darned well better be built on this coast, otherwise there's going to be an awful row," said Mayor Scurrah.

Harold Husband, president of Victoria Machinery Depot, said his yard was "desperately in need of work" and eager to bid for the contract to build one or both of the cutters in order to keep together the skilled VMD team of shipbuilders and technicians.

Mr. Hees said in his speech at the official opening of the Nova Scotia Fisheries Exhibition and Fishermen's Reunion held at Lunenburg that the department of transport has been authorized to begin construction of six patrol cutters "next year."

The minister in his speech gave no details of the proposed ships beyond saying they would be designed to suit local circumstances and, if they proved sucesful, more of the vessels would be recommended to the government.

(In an interview later, Mr. Hees said the cutters are expected to cost between $350,000 and $400,000 each.)

Mr. Hees said steps will be studied to enable the government ships to improve their effectiveness in marine rescue. But even with a fleet of government-department ships totalling more than 150, there must be full co-operation by private owners.

Marine Disasters

"What is needed is leadership to bring the great fleet of publicly and privately-owned vessels operating in Canadian waters into a state of coherence and readiness to meet marine disasters.

"This leadership the government proposes to give through the agency of the Canadian Marine Service, the newly-adopted name for ships of the department of transport. Our marine co-ordinators will be key men in this continuing development."

H. B. Elworthy, president of Island Tug and Barge, one of the originators of the co-operative marine rescue service carried on for several years past by ferries, tugboats and other craft plying B.C. waters, said: "I'll take my hat off to the government if they can better what we already have here in B.C."

Constantly on Alert

He said the marine rescue setup on the west coast, co-ordinated by Capt. Cyril Andrews of Vancouver, now has every vessel constantly on alert and ready to lend assistance, and should "set a pattern to be followed by the rest of Canada."

Weather radar would be welcomed by operators of every type of craft on the west coast, said Mr. Elworthy.

Mr. Hees said that for some months the DOT's meteorological branch has been carrying on scientific research into the use of radar in weather analysis and forecasting.

"As a result of this," the minister said, "I now plan to recommend to the government the establishment of a general weather radar program."

First major installation would be at Halifax, and if it lives up to expectations the weather radar program will be extended across Canada, the minister said. The proposal implies a greater emphasis on the prevention of marine accidents.

Crane Flips Over

Crane operator Vernon Edgelow, 55, of 2812 Rockwell, was in "satisfactory" condition at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday after an accident at 11.30 a.m. at Yarrows Ltd.

The crane, company spokesmen said, was lifting two tons of steel when it overturned. Edgelow was rushed by Esquimalt police to hospital for X-ray and treatment of a possible broken shoulder.

The company has started an investigation to learn why a 10-ton crane should overturn on a two-ton lift.

Arctic Divers Return

Man-Seals' Antics Convulse Eskimos

By IAN STREET

The sight of men swimming around among ice floes caused a good deal of hilarity among native inhabitants of the western Arctic.

Eskimos, a good-natured people who laugh a lot, coined a new word to describe members of the RCN Pacific Command diving team which spent most of the summer on operations in the far north—they called the divers "man-seals."

CRAZY METHODS

More helpless laughter on the part of the Eskimos attended what they presumed to be "crazy" methods used by the divers to catch whitefish.

The whitefish, of course, were killed by explosive charges set off by the naval diving team to clear northern beaches of obstruction so that supply ships could land stores and equipment for DEW-line bases.

"The Eskimos thought we were crazy, using explosions to kill whitefish," said group leader Lt.-Cmdr. Frank Bayfield-Davis in an interview here yesterday.

The Eskimos proved they could do better by netting Arctic char, a gourmet item that sells in big cities for $4 a pound. After tasting the delicacy the divers hoped to gather a char harvest of their own among the fish killed by the explosive charges.

CURIOUS SEALS

But the explosions seemed only to attract curious seals which watched from about 100 yards offshore as they worked.

The naval team arrived at Tuktoyaktuk on the Mackenzie delta July 20 and found the water temperature was 50 degrees. A couple of days later, however, they were among ice floes with the mercury nudging 32 degrees.

FOG AND RAIN

They were about 2½ weeks in ice and battled fog and rain for much of their stay in the far north. When the team left for home last Thursday it was 32 degrees and snowing hard.

An emergency repair job on the Victoria icebreaker CGS Camsell provided a break in their routine.

Naval divers spent two days removing three smashed blades from the port propeller of the Camsell, damaged by pack ice off Point Barrow. With the help of the Camsell's crewmen they replaced the blades with spares weighing 1½ tons each.

GIANT WRENCH

Gigantic proportion of the co-operative task, carried out with a minimum of equipment, is shown by the fact that a giant wrench used for tightening bolts holding the blades was manipulated by cable attached to a five-ton crane.

Gavel-Hammering Alberni Mayor Smashes Glass

ALBERNI—Mayor Mabel Anderson shattered the glass top of the council table with repeated blows of the gavel last night during a stormy meeting in which she fought procedural battles from 7.30 p.m. to 11 p.m.

The glass-breaking episode came at the height of a fight over her right to write something into the council minutes.

TOOK EXCEPTION

Mayor Anderson took exception over minutes of a previous meeting which stated council meeting had been "terminated." She said this should read "adjourned."

She refused to accept a motion to adopt the minutes and city clerk James Sawyer refused to alter the minutes without council permission.

SIGN MINUTES

Mayor Anderson went to sign the minutes and promptly changed the wording herself.

Ald. Tom Barnett, who has been involved in many disputes with the mayor, charged she had illegally altered the minutes.

Mayor Anderson banged so hard on the gavel for order that the glass table top shattered.

Share Taxes Oak Bay Urges B.C.

Oak Bay council, seeking increased provincial financial aid to municipalities, will introduce a resolution before the Union of B.C. Municipalities calling for sharing of sales tax, motor vehicle licence fees and gasoline tax revenues.

The resolution, introduced last night by Coun. Fred Hawes and approved by council, requests that the provincial government return to the method of sharing such revenues on a percentage basis with municipal governments.

Councillors observed that while such a system may not be adequate for the needs of municipalities, it would be a step in the right direction.

Election Notebook

Youth, Grin, Posy Cinch in Oak Bay

By PETER BRUTON

Oak Bay Social Crediters figure they have found the secret of Liberal Alan Macfarlane's success and will begin working as from today to "re-organize for the next campaign."

"We have found the weak spots," chortled Socred campaign manager A. C. McFadyen, not at all dismayed that this startling discovery won't change the result in the riding.

Speaking on behalf of Socred candidate Reeve George Murdoch, he said:

"We salute the winner. Again it has been demonstrated that youth, legal background and fine family background pays off, plus an irresistible smile for everyone and a pink carnation at the polls on election day."

Mr. McFadyen said Mr. Murdoch's total of 3,694 votes set a new record for Socred candidates in the riding since 1953 and even surpassed that of Einar Gunderson.

★ ★ ★

LONG COUNT: The losing candidates were not the only people wearing glum expressions in the Vancouver Point Grey riding yesterday.

Returning officers were faced with the task of recounting all of the 357 polls even though Social Credit candidates swept to victory in the three-seat riding. More than 22,000 votes were cast for Attorney-General Robert Bonner alone.

The mixup occurred when 37 of the polling officers turned in their ballot boxes without phoning in the tally. And the returning office staff say it would be too complicated a job to try to separate the 37 boxes.

★ ★ ★

LIFE ON OCEAN WAVE: New CCF members for Delta are looking for someone to come forward with a fishboat.

During the campaign James Rhodes promised to make a trip on a seiner if elected to learn first hand of conditions in the fishing industry.

"And I'll go along as cook," said Mrs. Camille Mather, wife of Vancouver Sun funnyman Barry Mather.

Monday they were both elected and both said they would honor their pledge.

MISSING LINK: How DID Esperanza vote?

This was the intriguing question which gripped the Alberni riding all day yesterday — and as yet it still remains unanswered.

Communications broke down between the remote polling station and the returning officer's headquarters in Port Alberni.

When radio-telephone communications broke down it was decided to get B.C. Airlines to make contact with the little settlement on the West Coast.

By the way, no matter how the 18 votes in Esperanza go it can have no difference on the result. CCF candidate John Squire retained the seat.

★ ★ ★

CLEAN SWEEP: Port Alberni newspaper publisher Fred Duncan, the Social Credit candidate, had hoped that "as goes Queen's Cove so goes the riding."

He picked up both ballots cast at the Vancouver Island "community."

★ ★ ★

SIGN LANGUAGE: Ever since the election started city second-hand dealer W. A. Scott has had electioneering signs in his store window. Each time a new one went in the city came along and collected $1 tax.

Yesterday Bill threw all the signs out and put in one new one, which read: "Wacky Wacked Us. Congratulations to Wacky From Bill Scott."

Bill hopes the city won't come around to collect another $1.

DON'T KNOCK IT: Faith of Oak Bay Conservative James A. A. George in door-to-door campaigning has not been shaken, despite his poor showing in the polls Monday.

Mr. George has spent the past 18 months making personal calls on virtually every voter in the riding. His detailed analysis cards showed he had 2,100 supporters but he only polled 1,200 votes.

"Yes, I'm still in favor of this personal-style campaign," he said yesterday.

"For one thing, I made a lot of friends," he added. "Not as many as I thought, maybe, but . . . in view of the trend I think I would have got a lot less without doing what I did."

★ ★ ★

DISAPPEARING ACT: No wonder the Progressive Conservatives expected to do better than they actually did.

On the mainland in one riding there were fewer Tory votes than there were registered members of the Progressive Conservative constituency association in the district.

Canada Bans 'Buzzing' of Red Ships by Service Planes

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has acceded to Soviet demands that Canadian military planes stop "buzzing" Russian trawlers operating off Canada's east coast, it was learned reliably Tuesday.

"Buzzing" means flying low. In the case of RCAF and RCN planes on North Atlantic patrol it means flying low over the Russian ships for the purpose of identification and, sometimes, of photographing the vessels.

It is understood that the government order also applies to RCAF planes which keep a close eye on Russian-occupied ice islands in the Arctic Ocean.

It is believed the government order was issued to avoid any possibility of an accident, such as a Canadian plane colliding with a Russian ship.

However, the RCAF and RCN will continue to make surveillance flights, though not approaching the Russian vessels as closely as before.

On July 14, David Johnston, Canadian ambassador to Moscow, was called to the Soviet foreign office to hear a complaint that on four occasions Canadian planes had "buzzed" Soviet ships at sea.

After investigation of the trawler incidents, the government now has ordered a ban on low flights over Soviet fishing vessels.

Tuesday a rumor made the rounds here that Russian trawlers had been seen in the mouth of the St. Lawrence River, supposedly to monitor radio communications during the big air defence exercise Sky Shield last Saturday.

Authorities discounted the rumor, apparently based on the report of an airline pilot. They said there were no Russian vessels in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

'Shoot Apartheid' Pratt's Mission

* * *

PRETORIA (Reuters)—Wealthy white farmer David Pratt, 53, said Tuesday he had a "violent urge" to shoot "the stinking monster" of South African racial laws when he pumped two bullets into Prime Minister Verwoerd at a farm show in April.

"If my intention had been to kill him, I could have," Pratt said in a long statement in the second day of his trial for attempted murder.

MENTAL CHECKUP

The court ordered him committed for two weeks to a mental institution for observation.

A psychiatrist, citing Pratt's history of mental disturbances and epileptic fits dating back to the age of eight, testified that he was unfit to plead on the charge.

DAVID PRATT
... aimed at monster

Pratt said he wanted to "shoot apartheid" which he said "was gripping the throat of South Africa and preventing South Africa from achieving its rightful place among nations."

"But I did not fully associate that with the prime minister." He only wanted to maim Verwoerd to "give him opportunity to consider some of the things that were going on.

"To me," he said, "my abnormalities do not represent insanity. There is a pattern in everything that has taken place."

Pratt said he had returned from a trip to Europe early this year and was "horrified at the disintegration" while he was away.

STARTED IN 1954

He said his "sense of mission" had built up from 1954 and added "I can tell you now what I should have told you in 1954:

"South Africa has got to come out of her wilderness. She has a great and glorious future waiting for her under the basic laws of God and human beings which in the words of Mr. (Prime Minister) Macmillan is rule by merit not by pigment of skin."

He urged South Africans to take one simple initial plunge "and throw nationalism out" if they are worthy of the future."

"If you are not worthy of it," Pratt added, "at least I shall never feel guilty again."

8,000,000 Canadians Don't Belong to Church

OTTAWA (CP) — Between 8,000,000 and 9,000,000 Canadians do not belong to any church, Rev. Morse Robinson of the Anglican Church mission department, said Tuesday.

"The Christian in Canada could belong to a diminishing minority in the next century," he said.

Lumumba's Men Get Full Power In Congo Crisis

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—A joint session of the Congolese Parliament voted Tuesday to give "full powers" to the government of Patrice Lumumba during the present crisis.

Observers said Lumumba backers planned to make the unspecified powers retroactive to Sept. 1 to invalidate Lumumba's dismissal Sept. 5 by President Joseph Kasavubu.

ARREST WARRANT

In another development, a spokesman at Kasavubu's residence said Tuesday night that an arrest warrant has been made out against Gen. Victor Lundula, head of Lumumba's Congolese army. Lundula has been held responsible for freeing Lumumba after his arrest Monday.

No definition of the powers was given. But in asking that they be voted, Lumumba's information minister, Anicet Kashamura, said they would first be used to order the arrest of anyone claiming to be a minister who was not backed by a vote of confidence from Parliament.

CURB KASAVUBU

Kashamura said the powers would also be used to limit the political activity of Kasavubu, who named Senate President Joseph Ileo as premier in an attempt to dismiss Lumumba.

Loud cheers rang through the chamber as Lumumba strode in. Few opposition members were present. He told the joint session he bears no ill will now against Kasavubu.

"If Kasavubu wants a reconciliation, I am ready," he said.

Dag Under Fire

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The Soviet Union accused Dag Hammarskjold Tuesday of violating Security Council resolutions by taking action regarded as unfriendly toward Premier Patrice Lumumba of the Congo.

Valerian Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, asked for an immediate session of the council to consider the charges against the UN secretary-general, but he failed to get one.

IN LETTER

He made the request in a letter to Egidio Ortona of Italy, council president this month.

Zorin asked for a 3 p.m. meeting. But Ortona did not find enough support among other council members for an afternoon meeting. After private consultation, the president called a session for 11 a.m. today.

AFRICANS MEET

Outside UN headquarters, chief delegates of African nations met behind closed doors with the two rival delegations sent here from the Congo—one representing Lumumba and the other President Joseph Kasavubu.

Space 'Catch' Today

VANDENBURG BASE, Calif. (AP) — Discoverer XV roared into polar orbit Tuesday carrying a capsule the United States Air Force hopes to catch near Hawaii late today.

If recovered, it will be three in a row for the American side in the world "space ball" game. The first one recovered by the U.S. was pulled out of the sea. The second was snagged by a plane.

But Russia successfully brought back from orbit a far heavier capsule that contained animals.

SECOND STAGE

The air force announced the rocket's second stage had gone into orbit less than two hours after it was shot aloft.

On its 17th trip around the earth—about 6 p.m. PDT today—the satellite is to eject its capsule somewhere over the Arctic. Thirty minutes later planes trailing huge trapeze nets will try to snag the capsule as it parachutes toward the 60-by-200-mile target area north of Hawaii.

OTHER RECOVERIES

Discoverer XIV's capsule was recovered this way Aug. 19.

The capsule from Discoverer XII slipped past waiting planes Aug. 11 but was fished from the ocean minutes later.

Two days after the recovery of Discoverer XIV's capsule the Russians announced they had recovered a larger capsule carrying two dogs and some smaller animals.

Tory 'Win' Muddles Britons

LONDON (CP) — British newspaper readers can be forgiven if they are not clear on the results of the B.C. election.

"As they were—Tories win," says The Daily Express headline.

The Daily Telegraph doesn't make any mistake about the winning party, but . . . .

"Its nearest rivals, the Conservatives, have won 14 seats," it says.

The Times was the only London newspaper to tell its readers that the Social Credit, CCF and Liberals parties finished in that order.

Safety of Nikita, Castro, Nasser Big U.S. Worry

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States last night speedily rejected a Soviet protest against American regulations restricting Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to Manhattan Island during his attendance at the United Nations next week.

The U.S. said curbs on Khrushchev's movements were designed to protect him and "specifically to assure to Mr. Khrushchev the unhindered fulfillment of his mission to the United Nations."

UNUSUAL SPEED

The state department, acting with unusual speed, delivered its formal rejection less than six hours after Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov handed Secretary of State Christian A. Herter a Russian note protesting the restrictions.

The Soviet note complained that the restrictions are unwarranted and designed to worsen relations rather than improve them.

RESPONSIBILITIES

The American note rejected such suggestions and pointed out that under the UN headquarters agreement the United States has certain responsibilities regarding the protection of delegates and must assure "their unimpeded transit to and from the United Nations headquarters."

The state department's security problem was already formidable in view of the imminent arrival of Khrushchev, other top Communist bosses and United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser. But it was further magnified with the announcement that Cuban Premier Fidel Castro would lead the Cuban delegation to the UN meeting.

TRAVEL CURBS

The state department was considering the possibility of clamping travel restrictions on the bearded Cuban leader in view of the many anti-Castro refugees living in the New York area.

Officials said they were actually more worried about the possibility of danger to Castro, Hungarian Communist party chief Janos Kadar, and United Arab Republic President Abdel Nasser than they were to Khrushchev.

Bennett Back Today

The remote far-northern riding of Atlin remained undecided yesterday while recounts appeared certain in three ridings won narrowly by Social Credit in Monday's provincial election.

With 10 polls out of 15 counted in Atlin, where 1,335 eligible voters are scattered over thousands of square miles of undeveloped country, Social Credit candidate W. J. Asselstine held a tenuous 20-vote lead over CCF opponent Frank Calder.

TORY FAR BACK

Asselstine, a former Liberal cabinet minister who won the seat in 1956, had 244 votes to 224 for Calder, who sat in the legislature for the riding from 1949 to 1956. The Progressive Conservative candidate was in last place with 110 votes.

With Atlin still doubtful the standing of the parties is:

	1960	1956
Social Credit	32	39
CCF	15	10
Liberals	4	2
Labor	0	1

Meanwhile, the tumult and shouting over, speculation turned to new cabinet appointments and the possibility that final tallies might see further Social Credit losses in the Vancouver Island ridings of Nanaimo and the Islands, Comox and the interior constituency of Yale.

FISHING VOTES

Official election result won't be known for 10 days until absentee ballots are counted Sept. 24—and in the two Island ridings, at least, CCF candidates are hoping to pick up enough votes from fishermen to swing the balance from defeat to victory.

In Nanaimo Recreation Minister Earle Westwood has a majority of 112 over CCFer Colin Cameron while in Comox Socred Dan Campbell has a
